New Resources Plan Requested

By DON WALTON

Star Staff Writer

The Legislature Thursday tentatively decided to scrap the 33-unit natural resource district plan proposed last August and direct the State Soil and Water Conservation Commission to draft a new proposal for its consideration.

Meanwhile, lawmakers agreed, the implementation date for the 1969 natural resource district law should be moved back from Jan. 1, 1972 to July 1, 1972.

That would give the 1972 Legislature, which convenes next January, an opportunity to review the new districts and make any alterations in the law itself.

May Seek Repeal

It would also provide Sen. J. James Waldron with a chance to pursue his proposal to repeal the law at that time, the Callaway senator noted.

Waldron has agreed to forego floor action on his bill, LB117, until 1972 in order to give Sen.

Jules Burbach of Crofton an opportunity to refine the 1969 law.

Burbach guided two such efforts past their initial floor test Thursday.

16 To 28 Districts

LB538 abolishes the 33-district plan and directs the commission to formulate a new plan creating between 16 and 28 districts.

The commission was told to use river basins as boundary lines in establishing the new districts.

The new plan would then be subject to legislative approval or rejection in 1972.

LB538 was advanced on a 29-5 vote.

Delay Okayed

An accompanying measure, LB544, moving the operative date back to July 1, 1972, was sent over its first floor hurdle on a 28-8 count.

Burbach said there is insufficient time at the present session to make all the refinements in the natural resource district law recommended by an interim legislative study committee which held 35 hearings across the state after the 1969 Unicameral adjourned.

Most of the bills in that package of proposals will be held for consideration in 1972.

Burbach originally recommended a maximum limit of 26 new districts, but senators acceded to Sen. Richard Marvel's request to boost that figure to 28.

Keyes' Plan Nixed

Sen. Orval Keyes of Papillion was turned aside on a 4-19 vote when he suggested that no minimum or maximum number be established.

Thursday's two bills are only "stalling" implementation of the natural resource district law, Keyes said.

There are 13 recognized river basins in Nebraska which the commission must follow in establishing proposed new district boundaries.

"I think we're going in the right direction," Sen. Maurice Kremer of Aurora, a leader in water resource development efforts, told his colleagues.

13 PANTHERS ACQUITTED

'IT'S MY DADDY'

"It's my daddy!" shouted the 8-year-old son of McKinley Pace, 38, as he pushed through police lines to see his father's body. Pace died in a shootout in Cincinnati, Ohio, with two bondsmen who were trying to take him to jail. One of the bondsmen was killed, the other wounded. Pace had been sought since March 27 after losing his appeal of a 13-month sentence for attacking policemen during a racial demonstration last summer.

Jury Acts In Hours After 8-Month Trial

. . . IN NEW YORK CONSPIRACY CASE

New York (AP) — All 13 Black Panthers charged with conspiring to bomb buildings and murder policemen were acquitted on all counts by a jury Thursday.

The verdict came less than four hours after deliberation began.

In Jail 2 Years

The defendants, most of whom have been in jail for more than two years, listened intently as jury foreman James Fox began to read the verdict to the court, responding "not guilty" 156 times to the court clerk's question of what the jury found on each count for each defendant.

The case went to the jury at 1:22 p.m. after a trial that lasted eight months and had been preceded by seven months of pretrial hearing, often marked by disorder in the court.

Minutes before State Supreme Court Justice John M. Murtagh concluded his charge to the jury of 11 men and one woman, a courtroom disruption occurred.

Powell Shouts 'Pig!'

As defense lawyers took exception to Murtagh's jury charge and claimed it had been biased and prejudicial against the defendants, one of the defendants, Curtis Powell, leaped to his feet and shouted "Pig!"

Murtagh ordered Powell removed from the courtroom for a few minutes, but readmitted him before submitting the case to the jury, which included five blacks.

The prosecution contended that the defendants were part of a massive, terrorist plot for the height of the 1969 Easter season. The defense contended the Panthers were merely "blusterers."

The case is the longest criminal proceeding in New York state. It began in April 1969 with the arrest of the defendants and the indictment of 22 persons. It has cost an estimated $2 million.

Charges against the Panthers included conspiracy to bomb police stations and other public places, plotting to kill policemen, and weapons and explosives possession.

Two Jumped Bail

Nine of those named in the original indictment either have never been apprehended or were subjects of separate litigations. Two of those on trial — Richard Moore and Michael Tabor — jumped bail and were being tried in absentia.

Murtagh had formally dismissed all but 12 of the 30 original charges. He told the jurors Wednesday he wanted to "avoid giving you issues of complexity that might interfere with your ability to give a fair verdict."

Dropped were some of the lesser charges including weapons and explosives possession.

The prosecution based its case on the testimony of four undercover agents who infiltrated the Black Panther Party in 1968 and 1969 and reported daily on their activities.

Credibility Questioned

Defense lawyers hammered at the credibility of the policemen who they said were under pressure to justify their roles by getting incriminating evidence.

They charged the prosecution's case was compounded of innuendo, out-of-context statements, irrelevances and appeals to racial fears and bias.

The trial testimony included 15,000 pages of transcript. Items introduced into evidence included guns, chemicals, photographs and documents.

U.S. Said Building Viet Political Jails

(c) Washington Star

Washington — The man who uncovered the "tiger cages" on Con Son Island in South Vietnam said Thursday that the United States was building new "isolation cells" to replace the cages and that they, too, would be used for political prisoners.

Don Luce, a 12-year veteran of volunteer work in South Vietnam, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that the U.S. Navy had made grants totaling $400,000 specifically for the construction of isolation cells.

The grant "contains many of the worst elements in our aid program," Luce said. "I don't believe the United States should be building prisons for political prisoners anywhere. It is an example of how often our government has misrepresented what it is doing abroad."

'Criminal In Itself'

"I believe that the building of these isolation cells for prisoners on Con Son are criminal in itself, especially when we were already fully aware of how prison officials there had used the tiger cages left there by the French."

Luce in July 1970 accompanied two congressmen to Con Son and managed to find the secret tiger cages, despite the opposition of prison officials.

He was one of three long-time observers of South Vietnam who testified Thursday before the committee, headed by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark. The committee is investigating ways to end the war in Vietnam. All three witnesses were dubious about the Nixon administration's Vietnamization program, and all said an end to the war could only come through political accommodation between opposing forces in South Vietnam.

Luce, for example, said the most likely solution was a coalition between the Viet Cong political arm, the National Liberation Front, and what he called the "third force," all major religious leaders, students, workers and women's groups.

Housing Authority Plans Needs Survey

By TOM EKVALL

Star Staff Writer

A survey to determine what the city's housing needs are will be undertaken, the Lincoln Housing Authority decided Thursday evening.

The survey is expected to involve the University of Nebraska and the City Planning Department in cooperation with the Housing Authority.

Kenneth King, chairman of the Housing Authority, said university, city and Housing Authority representatives had met earlier in the day to discuss updating present information on housing.

Request Assistance

King said the Housing Authority will now officially request the assistance of the university and the city in undertaking the survey.

He said the survey will seek to determine the housing needs of university students, elderly and low-income families as well as attitudes of the people.

King said he felt the survey would be the most logical way "to find out the facts" about what is the local housing situation.

Not Good Enough

He said university officials believe that "figures and facts thrown around are not good enough to be relied on."

The latest study, King said, is four to five years old.

Housing Authority member Carroll Thompson said that while the authority may not be meeting the total housing need of the low income, "we have done what we think is our best job under existing conditions."

The Housing Authority has come under criticism for placing married university students in housing which some feel should be used by low-income families.

Authority Backed

The League of Women Voters, represented by its president, Mrs. Jeanne Agee, appeared before the Housing Authority in support of the authority's adopting a grievance procedure, specifically the model procedure recommended by the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

Mrs. Agee said such a procedure would safeguard the interests of both the Housing Authority and the tenants.

"The model grievance procedure provides fair rules covering each step in pursuit of a complaint, but we believe the procedure ultimately adopted should contain more explicit deadlines," she said.

Hearing Board

Under the proposed grievance procedure, an impartial hearing board would be created to hear complaints and make recommendations to the Housing Authority.

"In matters of eligibility, inspections, lease restrictions, collection of rent and damage costs and evictions this model grievance procedure serves simply to protect human rights," Mrs. Agee said.

John Jenkins, representing the Tenant Advisory Committee, said he felt evictions must be included under the grievance procedure.

Agree With League

Jenkins and representatives of the City-Wide Tenants Association and the Nebraskans for Peace said they agreed with the position taken by the League of Women Voters.

The Housing Authority has not decided yet whether it will implement such a grievance procedure.

The board also decided to reserve 3 one-bedroom, 4 two-bedroom and 2 three-bedroom units under its leased housing program for the apartment complex to be built at 23rd and W by Housing Help Inc.

Wesleyan Reveals Honor Graduates

Three Nebraska Wesleyan University seniors will graduate Sunday With Highest Distinction at Nebraska Wesleyan University's 82nd annual commencement.

Nine others will receive their degrees With High Distinction and 18 will earn degrees With Distinction.

Named to receive their degrees with the highest honors the University can bestow are:

Exon Seeking Space Shuttle Base Support

Gov. J. James Exon said Thursday he has requested the support of Nebraska's Congressional delegation in obtaining the space shuttle base being proposed by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

The estimated $6-9 million facility would launch and recover delivery vehicles in NASA's future space station and satellite programs.

The State Economic Development Department is currently developing with the assistance of a Los Angeles consulting firm documentation on several potential sites in the state, he said.

The base, estimated to employ 6,000 persons with an annual operating budget of $20 to $30 million, requires a 58,000-acre tract, down-range recovering sites and existing community and industry support.

With the national emphasis on rural development and population distribution, the governor said, it is believed this type of installation in Nebraska would be consistent with national priorities.

New York Times
News Summary

Egyptian Government Sees Sweeping Change

(c) New York Times News Service
Cairo — The Egyptian government underwent a sweeping change of power when six members of the cabinet resigned including Gen. Mohammed Fawzy, minister of war, and three high officials in the nation's only political party, the Arab Socialist Union. It's believed the changes grew out of a debate related to the ouster of the vice president last week.

Three Blacks Promoted
Washington — Three black colonels were among 80 promotions in the Army to one-star general rank that have been approved by President Nixon and now go to the Senate for confirmation. The promotions bring to four the number of black flag officers in the Army.

Moller Resigns Post

government reportedly because he felt excessive demands on his budget funds by other ministers were incompatible with the need for more economic stability. Economist Minister Karl Schiller was appointed to succeed Moller at the head of a new "superministry" of economics and finance.

Compromise Ruled Out
Washington — Any compromise to defeat a Senate move to reduce American troop strength in western Europe has been ruled out by the White House. Sen. Hugh Scott predicted that if the move to attach the troop cut amendment to draft legislation is successful the president would veto the bill. (More On Page 2.)

Market Entry Opposed
London — In the wake of breakthroughs at the Brussels talks on British entry into the Common Market, anti-market forces in Britain swiftly reacted labeling the terms worked out as worthless. Labour Party opposition leader Harold Wilson took a skeptical if vague line on the negotiations.

New Ground Broken
Paris — With each side still blaming the other for the war, the Vietnam peace conference began its fourth year. Some new ground was broken when the North Vietnamese endorsed and clarified a Pathet Lao proposal for a ceasefire in Laos saying it covered all forces in the country.

$1 Billion Price Tag
Washington — The Boeing Company put an additional half a billion dollar price tag on reviving the supersonic transport program over what was needed before the SST was cancelled. The statement by the chairman of the company undercut a primary argument used by pro-SST forces in engineering the House revival of the plane. (More On Page 2.)

New Contract Reached
Washington — The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the nation's railroads reached a contract agreement that could set a precedent to ease many of the problems plaguing the industry. The agreement, announced by the National Railway Labor Conference, reportedly calls for wage increases of 42% over 42 months.

Duval Is Appointed
Washington — Merlin K. Duval was appointed by President Nixon as his new assistant secretary for health and scientific affairs to replace Dr. Robert Egeberg. If confirmed by the Senate to the post which has been a source of controversy, Dr. Duval will guide the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's medical and scientific programs.

13 Panthers Acquitted
New York — Thirteen Black Panthers were acquitted on all 12 counts of an indictment accusing them of a bomb conspiracy. The jury of eight white, five blacks and one Puerto Rican after an eight month trial unanimously freed the defendants, including two who fled to Algeria during the trial, after a surprisingly short deliberation. (More On Page 1.)

Agency Said Illegal
New York — A commercial abortion referral agency was ruled illegal in New York State Supreme Court. The ruling on a complaint brought by Attorney General Lefkowitz, which may have widespread effects, barred the abortion agency from referring pregnant women to physicians and hospitals for abortions.

Senate Panel Backs SST, 13-7

But the committee's chairman, Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., previously a strong SST

Virginia Douglas Dies; Girl Told Santa Claus Real
Valatie, N.Y. (AP) — Mrs. Virginia O'Hanlon Douglas, the woman who as a child was told in a newspaper editorial, "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus," died Thursday at age 81.

In ill health for several years, the lady who kept her faith in Santa passed away quietly at a nursing home in this small village southeast of Albany.

She was 8 years old when she wrote the old New York Sun, asking whether indeed Saint Nick existed again. The estimates range from a low of $200 million offered by the SST's chief supporter, Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., to a possible $1 billion suggested by William Allen, board chairman of the Boeing Corp., prime SST contractor.

In a news conference Allen said $500 million probably would be the minimum it would take to "pick up the pieces" of the SST program.

Before Boeing and other companies involved could start again, Allen said, all contracts would have to be renegotiated, undoubtedly at higher prices.

And this time, he said, the goal should be not merely production of two SST prototypes but the construction of an American commercial passenger fleet.

Proxmire said in a Senate speech the declaration by the aerospace industry on the costly business of restarting the program provides "the clincher" to anti-SST arguments.

Those arguments have included an attack on any federal subsidy of a private commercial project, predictions an American SST would be commercially unsound and lose tax money, and fears it would trigger a long series of adverse environmental effects

Hanoi Agrees To Prisoners' Return

Tokyo (AP) — Hanoi agreed Friday to formally accept a group of North Vietnamese prisoners of war held in South Vietnam but tied their release to a 24-hour sea, land and air cease-fire.

It was the first time the Communist regime declared publicly it would receive repatriated prisoners and agreed to participate in their transfer at sea.

Hanoi's official news agency, in a broadcast monitored here, referred to a South Vietnamese announcement last month in which the Saigon government said it was willing to free 570 invalid North Vietnamese captives.

North Vietnam has never admitted it has troops fighting in the South, and the broadcast did not say that the prisoners to be accepted were North Vietnamese soldiers. It spoke of "patriots illegally arrested and detained" and said it was the Saigon government that called them "North Vietnamese prisoners of war."

Hanoi called for the prisoners to be transferred from Allied ships to North Vietnamese ships June 4 in the Gulf of Tonkin.

The broadcast made no mention of a second offer by South Vietnam to send 1,200 other North Vietnamese prisoners held four years or longer to a neutral country.

This offer was geared to an American proposal that prisoners held by both sides be interned in a neutral country.

The United States says more than 1,600 American troops are missing in Southeast Asia; Hanoi has reported holding 339.

The closest Hanoi came before to accepting prisoners from South Vietnam was Jan. 24, when Hanoi's delegation to the Paris talks specified a point on the Ben Hai River that divides Vietnam where the prisoners should cross.

The South Vietnamese provided rubber boats for the 37 prisoners who paddled across the river and were met by four armed soldiers.

Draft Extension Bill Veto Predicted

Washington (AP) — Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott said Thursday President Nixon will veto the draft extension bill if Congress attaches the pending Senate amendment to cut U.S. European troop strength in half.

Sen. Charles C. McMathias Jr., meanwhile, warned that enactment of the amendment might prompt West Germany to start selling its billions of U.S. dollars, threatening the economic stability of the United States.

A Senate vote on the amendment by Democratic leader Mike Mansfield is scheduled next Wednesday.

One Republican opponent said a Nixon administration head count looked "very bad" and that prospects of defeating the move in the House might also be difficult.

Still, the White House was reported sticking to its "no compromise" position.

Nixon also has asked Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster, commander in chief of NATO forces, and Robert Ellsworth, U.S. ambassador to NATO, to come here from Europe, White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said.

The first Senate vote will come on a substitute proposal by Mathias, which supports President Nixon's announced intention to keep the present 300,000-man level of U.S. forces in Europe and says significant changes in the level of United States forces in Europe should not be made without full consultation with the Congress.

Talking to reporters before he left for Japan to attend a weekend conference of parliamentarians, Scott said "I have as near a certainty as a man could have that the President would veto the draft bill if it has the Mansfield amendment in it."

"The President will not and cannot accept a forced reduction of forces," he added.

CHURCH FINDS NO EVIDENCE GIRLS BOUGHT

©The New York Times

Rome — A Vatican official said Thursday an investigation had uncovered no evidence for charges that girls from India were sold to religious orders in the West.

The Rev. Edward L. Heston said the investigation had noted "a certain negligence" in enrollment of Indian girls for religious institutions in Western Europe and would be corrected. Recruitment, suspended since last year, "will surely be resumed," he said.

New York Times
News Summary

(c) New York Times News Service

Cairo — The Egyptian government underwent a sweeping change of power when six members of the cabinet resigned including Gen. Mohammed Fawzy, minister of war, and three high officials in the nation's only political party, the Arab Socialist Union. It's believed the changes grew out of a debate related to the ouster of the vice president last week.

Three Blacks Promoted

Washington — Three black colonels were among 80 promotions in the Army to one-star general rank that have been approved by President Nixon and now go to the Senate for confirmation. The promotions bring to four the number of black flag officers in the Army.

Moller Resigns Post

government reportedly because he felt excessive demands on his budget funds by other ministers were incompatible with the need for more economic stability. Economics Minister Karl Schiller was appointed to succeed Moller at the head of a new "superministry" of economics and finance.

Compromise Ruled Out

Washington — Any compromise to defeat a Senate move to reduce American troop strength in western Europe has been ruled out by the White House. Sen. Hugh Scott predicted that if the move to attach the troop cut amendment to draft legislation is successful the president would veto the bill. (More On Page 2.)

Market Entry Opposed

London — In the wake of breakthroughs at the Brussels talks on British entry into the Common Market, anti-market forces in Britain

swiftly reacted labeling the terms worked out as worthless. Labour Party opposition leader Harold Wilson took a skeptical if vague line on the negotiations.

New Ground Broken

Paris — With each side still blaming the other for the war, the Vietnam peace conference began its fourth year. Some new ground was broken when the North Vietnamese endorsed and clarified a Pathet Lao proposal for a ceasefire in Laos saying it covered all forces in the country.

$1 Billion Price Tag

Washington — The Boeing Company put an additional half a billion dollar price tag on reviving the supersonic transport program over what was needed before the SST was cancelled. The statement by the chairman of the company

undercut a primary argument used by pro-SST forces in engineering the House revival of the plane. (More On Page 2.)

New Contract Reached

Washington — The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and the nation's railroads reached a contract agreement that could set a precedent to ease many of the problems plaguing the industry. The agreement, announced by the National Railway Labor Conference, reportedly calls for wage increases of 42% over 42 months.

Duval Is Appointed

Washington — Merlin K. Duval was appointed by President Nixon as his new assistant secretary for health and scientific affairs to replace Dr. Robert Egeberg. If confirmed by the Senate to the post which has been a source of controversy, Dr. Duval will guide the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's medical and scientific programs.

13 Panthers Acquitted

New York — Thirteen Black Panthers were acquitted on all 12 counts of an indictment accusing them of a bomb conspiracy. The jury of eight white, five blacks and one Puerto Rican after an eight month trial unanimously freed the defendants, including two who fled to Algeria during the trial, after a surprisingly short deliberation. (More On Page 1.)

Agency Said Illegal

New York — A commercial abortion referral agency was ruled illegal in New York State Supreme Court. The ruling on a complaint brought by Attorney General Lefkowitz, which may have widespread effects, barred the abortion agency from referring pregnant women to physicians and hospitals for abortions.

Japanese Student Hits Oregon Trail

... Lack Of Indians Puzzles 22-Year-Old Visitor

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau

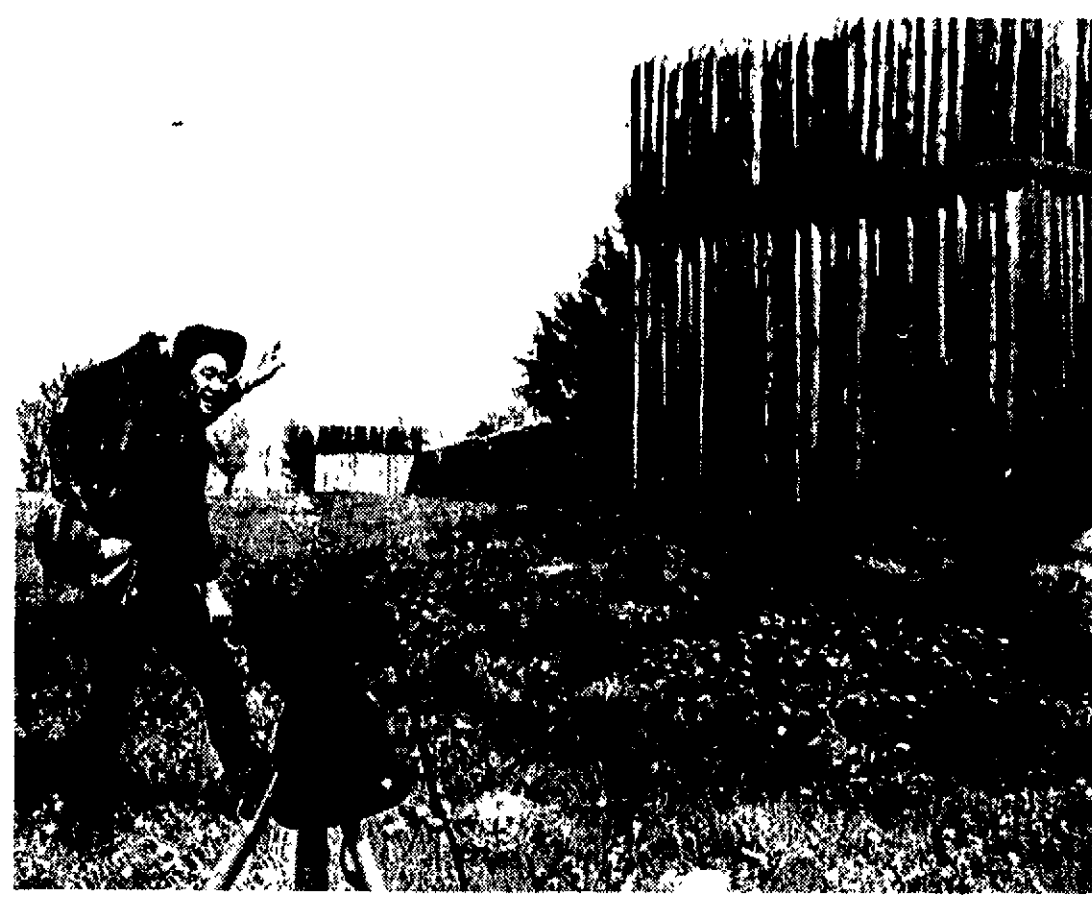

Fort Kearny — Like thousands of others who traveled the Oregon Trail, Takashi Okada has a language problem.

But what the smiling Japanese student lacks in English, he makes up in friendliness and — to borrow from the vernacular — plain old moxie. Tackling four months of foreign country alone takes plenty of both.

He's hoofing it over the famous old trail between Independence, Mo., and Portland, Ore., — 2,000 foot-slogging miles. Two warmups along Japanese trails of several hundred kilometers helped condition him for the trip.

"Towns very short in Japan, very long in Nebraska," grinned the 22-year-old hiker, gesturing. "But here very beautiful, very friendly."

Enrolled in agriculture at Tamagawa University, Tokyo, the youth caught a spark of the American frontier which has been fanned into full flame since he took to the trail May 1. He plans a book upon return to his home city of Kumagaya, somewhat smaller than Lincoln.

"WESTWARD HO" ... Takashi adds self-portrait and Fort Kearny to trail collection.

Additional $15 Million In REA Funds Are Due For Release

Washington (AP) — Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., said Thursday he has just learned that an additional $15 million in Rural Electrification Administration loan funds will be released before the end of the current fiscal year.

This is part of the funds appropriated last year but frozen along with other agency funds.

It brings to $360 million the REA loan funds made available during fiscal 1971.

Taking Photos

Sure mentions will be Fairbury's Rock Creek Station and old Fort Kearny, where he recorded his own picture by tripod and camera self-timer. Sticking to main highways — he does some hitch-hiking — unfortunately cost him a tour of the Oak Massacre sites of Nuckolls County.

Several mayor's signatures, including those of Dr. C. B. Schwab of Fairbury and W. F. Gettmann of Hastings, have been affixed to a scroll which will provide a sequential record of the entire trip. Official city seals and other memorabilia — including a "Nebraska No. 1" emblem at Hastings — add touches of individuality.

The Aussie-hatted Takashi said he "like very much" a visit to Minden's Pioneer Village. But he also got across that, unlike most American youths, he was more impressed by the covered wagons than its renowned collection of cars.

"Where are Indians?" he queried, recognizing the protective design of Fort Kearny's replica stockade. "I no see Indians in America anyplace."

He was assured that he would see a few before completing the trail — that they "probably" wouldn't attack. The latter evinced a grin as well as a notebook explaining the purpose of his long trek.

"I would like to learn more about the American people's pioneer spirit and to experience the greatness of the land that Japan does not have," he had written.

Scheduled to make Portland by the end of August, Takashi will be met there by the Joseph Iversons of Chatsworth, Calif., longtime friends of one of his professors. They'll have no trouble spotting him.

What other Oregon Trail traveler ever had two flags — the Stars and Stripes and Rising Sun — pinned to his pack?

Plane Wreckage, Body Found At Chadron

Chadron (AP) — The wreckage of a light plane missing since Monday on a flight from Belle Fourche, S.D., to North Platte, was found Thursday about eight miles northeast of here.

A Civil Air Patrol spokesman said the body of the pilot — aircraft from Kansas and Wyoming in the search for the blue and white plane.

The wreckage was spotted about 4:30 p.m. Thursday by a CAP plane piloted by Rusty Dunker of the Chadron CAP wing.

Moore was last heard from Monday afternoon when he landed briefly at Rapid City, S.D. His final destination was Kearney, where his father is hospitalized.

Darrel D. Moore, 61, of Lead, S.D. — was found in the wreckage.

CAP planes and ground crews from Nebraska and South Dakota were joined Thursday by

Taylor Ordered To Stand Trial In Spencer Death

Omaha (UPI) — A 21-year-old Omaha man, charged with second degree murder in the shotgun death of a former Omaha policeman, was ordered Thursday to stand trial in District Court.

Municipal Judge D. B. Anderson ordered the trial for Gerald Stanley Taylor at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing, which had been recessed since April 30 to allow the defense time to produce a pathologist to testify about the cause of death.

The pathologist, Dr. J. W. Jones of the University of Nebraska Medical Center, said an autopsy on the body of Embury Lee Spencer showed he died of hemorrhage and shock caused by shotgun wounds in the right armpit and left thigh.

Spencer was found dead March 10 at the home of Alvin Goodwin, an assistant to Mayor Eugene Leahy.

Court Action Eyed Against State Reapportionment Bill

A North Platte real estate man said Thursday he plans court action if a pending legislative reapportionment bill is approved by the Unicameral.

Bill Heming, who headed a petition drive opposing the redistricting proposal, said funds have already been collected for the court fight.

Some 80 North Platte residents signed the petition protesting LB954, which would make Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway the Lincoln County legislator, replacing Sen. Ellen Craft of North Platte, who would be prevented from seeking re-election under the plan.

Heming said opposition to the proposal was based mainly on the fact that North Platte would be represented in the Legislature for two years by someone the citizens of North Platte didn't elect.

The petition will be distributed to all state senators Friday, he said.

The redistricting, based on the 1970 census, is necessary to grant an additional senator each to Lancaster and Douglas Counties. Also losing a chance for re-election under the plan is Sen. Willard Waldo of DeWitt.

Pat Defends Martha's Gab

Havlicek, Reeder Cited For NU Club Activities

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Agronomy Club recognized two of its senior members for their outstanding contributions as agronomy students during the club's annual honors banquet held here Thursday night.

Havlicek Reeder

Honored were Charles Havlicek of Du Bois, named outstanding senior in agronomy, and James Reeder of Shelton, recipient of the Advisor's Award.

Havlicek has a long list of agronomy club activities. He is currently ending his term as president of the NU Agronomy Club and serves as national president for the student section of the American Society of Agronomy. He is also a two year winner of the Agronomy Club speech contest and has competed at the national agronomy meeting. He has been the recipient of a national 4-H Agronomy scholarship.

The NU student was recently selected as a delegate for the International Farm Youth Exchange. In September Havlicek will begin his six-month appointment in Nepal.

Reeder was the recipient of the Advisor's Award which is presented each year to a senior in agronomy whom the advisors feel has shown extreme dedication and contribution to the club and agronomy in general.

Reeder has had consistent involvement in agronomy club activities during his five-year course of study in agronomy and agricultural education. He is a past president of the club and this year has served as vice president. He was this year's winner of the Agronomy Club speech contest which makes him eligible for national competition at the American Society of Agronomy annual meeting in New York City. Last year Reeder took second place in national competition in the student essay contest.

5 Individuals Honored

The Agronomy Club also recognized five individuals for their contributions to the profession of agronomy by awarding them honorary memberships in the Club.

Those cited were: Hollis Miller, operator of the Miller Seed and Supply Company in York and current president of the Nebraska Fertilizer Institute; Dr. Wayne Keim and Mrs. Virginia Keim Honstad, son and daughter of the late Dr. F. D. Keim, former NU agronomy department head and for whom the Keim Hall agronomy building was dedicated; Dr. Frank Viets, chief soil scientist in the USDA-ARS Soil and Water Conservation Research Division; and Mrs. Mary Glantz, secretary in the NU Department of Agronomy.

Cihacek, a freshman majoring in agronomy and agricultural education, will receive an expense-paid trip to the 1971 annual meeting of the American Society of Agronomy, to be held this year in New York City.

Vern Corman of Edgar, a junior in agronomy at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, has been named winner of the $500 F. D. Keim Memorial Scholarship for the 1971-72 school year.

Reeder and Walter Fick of Inman won top honors in the Agronomy Club speech contest.

The top two students in the club's speaking contest annually are awarded expense-paid trips to the national meeting of the American Society of Agronomy, being held this year at New York City, New York. Reeder will represent the NU Agronomy Club at the national speaking contest this year, with Fick as an alternate.

Five NU students have been named winners in the annual Agronomy Club essay contest.

The winners and their hometowns: David Scharff, Columbus; John Watson, Wayne; Jean Dolan, Lincoln; Ross Bowman, Hooper; and James Eastman, Kimball.

Miss Dolan was also named first place winner in the Agronomy Club's photography contest.

New Recreation Area

Kearney (AP) — Apparent low bids totaling $88,602 have been submitted to construct a new recreation area next to Harmon Park here. The area will include tennis, basketball and shuffleboard courts and a shelter house.

Japanese Student Hits Oregon Trail

... Lack Of Indians Puzzles 22-Year-Old Visitor

By DEAN TERRILL
Southeast Nebraska Bureau
 Fort Kearny — Like thousands of others who traveled the Oregon Trail, Takashi Okada has a language problem.
 But what the smiling Japanese student lacks in English, he makes up in friendliness and — to borrow from the vernacular — plain old moxie. Tackling four months of foreign country alone takes plenty of both.
 He's hoofing it over the famous old trail between Independence, Mo., and Portland, Ore. — 2,000 foot-slogging miles. Two warmups along Japanese trails of several hundred kilometers helped condition him for the trip.
 "Towns very short in Japan, very long in Nebraska," grinned the 22-year-old hiker, gesturing. "But here very beautiful, very friendly."
 Enrolled in agriculture at Tamagawa University, Tokyo, the youth caught a spark of the American frontier which has been fanned into full flame since he took to the trail May 1. He plans a book upon return to his home city of Kumagaya, somewhat smaller than Lincoln.

Additional $15 Million In REA Funds Are Due For Release

Washington (AP) — Rep. Dave Martin, R-Neb., said Thursday he has just learned that an additional $15 million in Rural Electrification Administration loan funds will be released before the end of the current fiscal year.
 This is part of the funds appropriated last year but frozen along with other agency funds.
 It brings to $360 million the REA loan funds made available during fiscal 1971.

Officials of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association were en route from Washington to Nebraska after a rural electric rally which ended in Washington Thursday.
 A spokesman for the Nebraska association indicated that the funds may be an emergency fund that is normally released near the end of the fiscal year if they were not allocated to an emergency need before the end of the fiscal year.

Dick Wilkerson, general manager of the Nebraska Rural Electric Association, said, "I don't have a pending application from a Nebraska rural electric system that is close enough to get some of these funds."

 Sure mentions will be Fairbury's Rock Creek Station and old Fort Kearny, where he recorded his own picture by tripod and camera self-timer. Sticking to main highways — he does some hitch-hiking — unfortunately cost him a tour of the Oak Massacre sites of Nuckolls County.

Several mayor's signatures, including those of Dr. C. B. Schwab of Fairbury and W. F. Gettmann of Hastings, have been affixed to a scroll which will provide a sequential record of the entire trip. Official city seals and other memorabilia — including a "Nebraska No. 1" emblem at Hastings — add touches of individuality.

The Aussie-batted Takashi said he "like very much" a visit to Minden's Pioneer Village. But he also got across that, unlike most American youths, he was more impressed by the covered wagons than its renowned collection of cars.

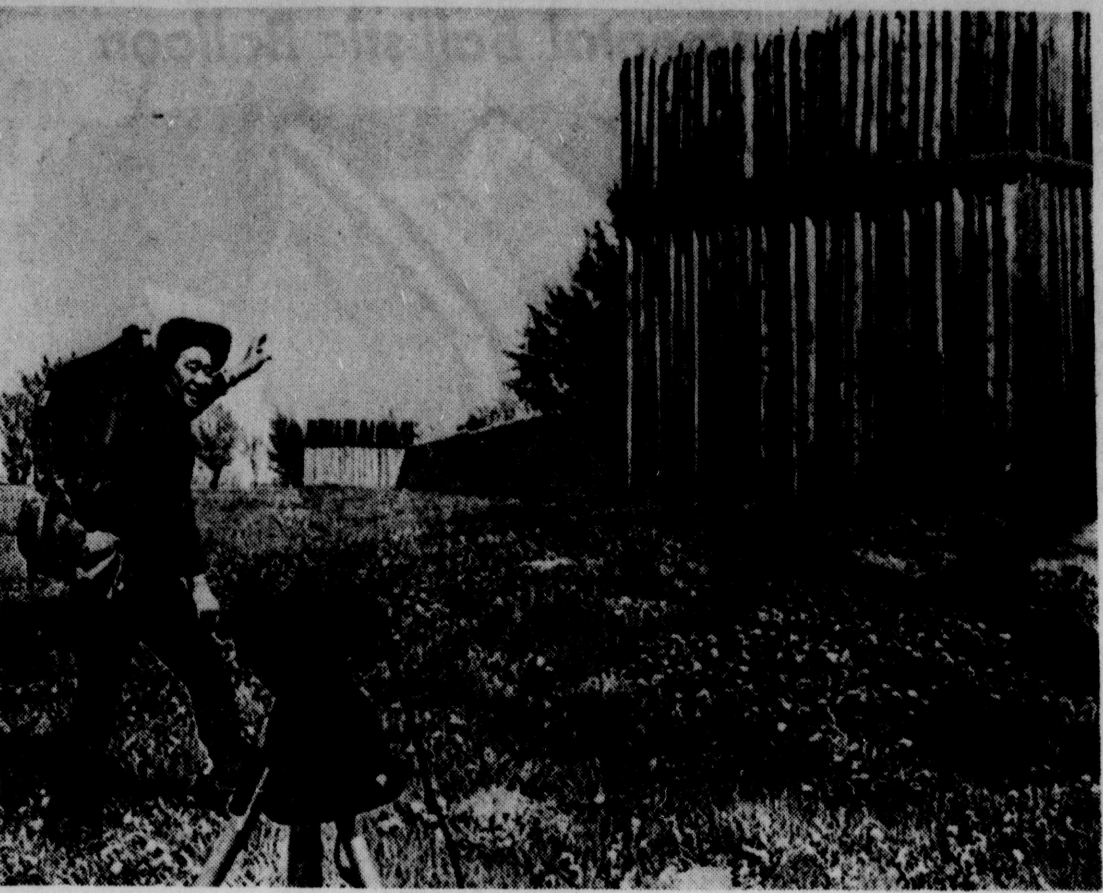

"Where are Indians?" he queried, recognizing the protective design of Fort Kearny's replica stockade. "I no see Indians in America anyplace."

He was assured that he would see a few before completing the trail — that they "probably" wouldn't attack. The latter evinced a grin as well as a notebook explaining the purpose of his long trek.

"I would like to learn more about the American people's pioneer spirit and to experience the greatness of the land that Japan does not have," he had written.

Scheduled to make Portland by the end of August, Takashi will be met there by the Joseph Iversons of Chatsworth, Calif., longtime friends of one of his professors. They'll have no trouble spotting him.

What other Oregon Trail traveler ever had two flags — the Stars and Stripes and Rising Sun — pinned to his pack?

Plane Wreckage, Body Found At Chadron

Chadron (AP) — The wreckage of a light plane missing since Monday on a flight from Belle Fourche, S.D., to North Platte, was found Thursday about eight miles northeast of here.

A Civil Air Patrol spokesman said the body of the pilot —

Darrel D. Moore, 61, of Lead, S.D. — was found in the wreckage.

CAP planes and ground crews from Nebraska and South Dakota were joined Thursday by aircraft from Kansas and Wyoming in the search for the blue and white plane.

The wreckage was spotted about 4:30 p.m. Thursday by a CAP plane piloted by Rusty Dunker of the Chadron CAP wing.

Moore was last heard from Monday afternoon when he landed briefly at Rapid City, S.D. His final destination was Kearney, where his father is hospitalized.

Taylor Ordered To Stand Trial In Spencer Death

Omaha (UPI) — A 21-year-old Omaha man, charged with second degree murder in the shotgun death of a former Omaha policeman, was ordered Thursday to stand trial in District Court.

Municipal Judge D. B. Anderson ordered the trial for Gerald Stanley Taylor at the conclusion of a preliminary hearing, which had been recessed since April 30 to allow the defense time to produce a pathologist to testify about the cause of death.

The pathologist, Dr. J. W. Jones of the University of Nebraska Medical Center, said an autopsy on the body of Embury Lee Spencer showed he died of hemorrhage and shock caused by shotgun wounds in the right armpit and left thigh.

Spencer was found dead March 10 at the home of Alvin Goodwin, an assistant to Mayor Eugene Leahy.

Court Action Eyed Against State Reapportionment Bill

A North Platte real estate man said Thursday he plans court action if a pending legislative reapportionment bill is approved by the Unicameral.

Bill Heming, who headed a petition drive opposing the redistricting proposal, said funds have already been collected for the court fight.

Some 80 North Platte residents signed the petition protesting LB954, which would make Sen. J. James Waldron of Callaway the Lincoln County legislator, replacing Sen. Ellen Craft of North Platte, who would be prevented from seeking re-election under the plan.

Heming said opposition to the proposal was based mainly on the fact that North Platte would be represented in the Legislature for two years by someone the citizens of North Platte didn't elect.

The petition will be distributed to all state senators Friday, he said.

The redistricting, based on the 1970 census, is necessary to grant an additional senator each to Lancaster and Douglas Counties. Also losing a chance for re-election under the plan is Sen. Willard Waldo of DeWitt.

Havlicek, Reeder Cited For NU Club Activities

The University of Nebraska-Lincoln Agronomy Club recognized two of its senior members for their outstanding contributions as agronomy students during the club's annual honors banquet held here Thursday night.

Honored were Charles Havlicek of Du Bois, named outstanding senior in agronomy, and James Reeder of Shelton, recipient of the Advisor's Award.

Havlicek has a long list of agronomy club activities. He is currently ending his term as president of the NU Agronomy Club and serves as national president for the student section of the American Society of Agronomy. He is also a two year winner of the Agronomy Club speech contest and has competed at the national agronomy meeting. He has been the recipient of a national 4-H Agronomy scholarship.

The NU student was recently selected as a delegate for the International Farm Youth Exchange. In September Havlicek will begin his six-month appointment in Nepal.

Reeder was the recipient of the Advisor's Award which is presented each year to a senior in agronomy whom the advisors feel has shown extreme dedication and contribution to the club and agronomy in general.

Reeder has had consistent involvement in agronomy club activities during his five-year course of study in agronomy and agricultural education. He is a past president of the club and this year has served as vice president. He was this year's winner of the Agronomy Club speech contest which makes him eligible for national competition at the American Society of Agronomy annual meeting in New York City. Last year Reeder took second place in national competition in the student essay contest.

5 Individuals Honored
 The Agronomy Club also recognized five individuals for their contributions to the profession of agronomy by awarding them honorary memberships in the Club.

Those cited were: Hollis Miller, operator of the Miller Seed and Supply Company in York and current president of the Nebraska Fertilizer Institute; Dr. Wayne Keim and Mrs. Virginia Keim Honstad, son and daughter of the late Dr. F. D. Keim, former NU agronomy department head and for whom the Keim Hall agronomy building was dedicated; Dr. Frank Viets, chief soil scientist in the USDA-ARS Soil and Water Conservation Research Division; and Mrs. Mary Glantz, secretary in the NU Department of Agronomy.

Havlicek Reeder

Dennis Cihacek of Morse Bluff won top honors in the Agronomy Club's annual crops and weeds identification contest.

Cihacek, a freshman majoring in agronomy and agricultural education, will receive an expense-paid trip to the 1971 annual meeting of the American Society of Agronomy, to be held this year in New York City.

Vern Corman of Edgar, a junior in agronomy at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, has been named winner of the $500 F. D. Keim Memorial Scholarship for the 1971-72 school year.

Reeder and Walter Fick of Inman won top honors in the Agronomy Club speech contest.

The top two students in the club's speaking contest annually are awarded expense-paid trips to the national meeting of the American Society of Agronomy, being held this year at New York City, New York. Reeder will represent the NU Agronomy Club at the national speaking contest this year, with Fick as an alternate.

Five NU students have been named winners in the annual Agronomy Club essay contest.

The winners and their hometowns: David Scharif, Columbus; John Watson, Wayne; Jean Dolan, Lincoln; Ross Bowman, Hooper; and James Eastman, Kimball.

Miss Dolan was also named first place winner in the Agronomy Club's photography contest.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Have you ever had the feeling that you had been where you are before or that you had met in the past someone to whom you are just being introduced? You may have that feeling about a lot of the news this week, that you had read it before.

The news is not really that old but public officials and others seem to keep bringing up the same old subjects, most of them pretty tired. The House has revived the supersonic transport battle by changing an appropriation for termination of the program into one for its continuation.

We cannot for the life of us see why this nation would want to get back into this matter. One proponent of the program even cited the international troubles of the dollar as support of his position in favor of further funding for the SST.

Maybe we just don't understand the situation but we have been led to believe that part of the problem with the dollar is the lack of fiscal discipline on our domestic scene. The dollar is weak here in our own country which tends to weaken it also in other nations of the land.

What it gets down to in very simple terms is that if the dollar is worth nothing here, it is worth nothing anywhere. One way to make the dollar worth a little more is to stop making it so cheaply, stop pumping it out as though it were confetti for a parade. And one way to tighten up a little on it is to keep the SST on the trash heap where it is and where it belongs.

But U.S. law-makers are not the only ones on a merry-go-round. State senators, it seems, spend a tremendous amount of time with matters that have been disposed of at some time or other in the past. We wonder sometimes if there is ever really a completely new issue in the Legislature.

This may put a premium on experience but that is often about all you can say for it. This week, for instance, senators killed a move to remove the state from federal daylight savings regulations, an issue we have wrestled with time and time again.

The big argument is that the summer time is bad for agriculture. From what we have heard, we would assume that it is true that a lot of farmers don't particularly like daylight savings time but it is difficult to understand how the program can be any substantial liability or problem for them. naem.

We really cannot believe that today's farmers are so engrossed in their work that daylight savings time removes them from all contact with the rest of the world. We frankly think that a lot of the agricultural complaint about daylight savings is so much sour grapes.

At any rate, we are pleased that the Legislature has again gone on record in favor of daylight savings, a system that we suspect is approved by a vast majority of Nebraskans. And we would hope that the issue has now permanently been laid to rest.

Sen. Terry Carpenter kept the pot boiling with some more leftovers this week. Carpenter is by far the most fascinating member of the Legislature and it would be interesting to see him in action at some other level of government.

It is surprising, in fact, that he has not enjoyed more success in the political arena beyond his Scottsbluff constituency.

Maybe the veteran law-maker will make another stab at things in 1972, taking on Sen. Carl Curtis for the U.S. Senate. It is rumored that he may shift from Republican to Democrat to do just that.

Whether that's a rumor of any substance or not, we have no idea, because Carpenter is about as unpredictable as a man could be. And that may be part of the reason why he has not enjoyed a great deal of success beyond the Legislature.

At any rate, he tried this week to reinstate the tax on intangibles. This would mean a mill levy against stocks and bonds, both domestic and foreign.

This, too, Nebraska has hashed over many times and repeatedly come to the conclusion that the assets of the measure do not come up to its liabilities. It's a great idea to tax the so-called rich stock and bond holders but they have a way of making that penalty hurt others by taking their wealth out of Nebraska.

Fireworks Pop In Right Past Customs

WASHINGTON — Fireworks Smuggling — Mafia fireworks hustlers are scheming to sneak high-powered Singapore firecrackers past customs inspectors in time for July 4. Probable entry port will be Los Angeles or Baltimore. In the past, the Mafia fireworks men have joked about the ease with which they slipped contraband fireworks past the supposedly keen-eyed customs men. They avoided high duties by labeling their fireworks "Container made in U.S.," thus cutting down the customs assessment. A schoolboy could have opened up the cones and tubes and found the containers were made from old Hong Kong newspapers.

Land Barons — The Bureau of Reclamation tried valiantly to get the Justice Department to appeal a court decision favoring the land barons and undercutting small family farms in California's Imperial Valley. But the Bureau was turned down after big GOP contributors took their case directly to Justice.

Nixon's Research — President Nixon has refused to spend $12 billion plus that Congress has voted for projects he doesn't like. To quiet congressional rumbling, the directed aides to search through George Washington's papers for a precedent. As far as they could find, Washington spent all the money Congress gave him. However, the White House aides finally came up with a $50,000 appropriation for gunboats that Thomas Jefferson

City-Industry Cooperation

"It's a stinking mess and our citizens shouldn't be subjected to it," said Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf this week, referring to the odor from the northeast Lincoln sewage treatment lagoon caused by effluent from the Archer Daniels Midland (ADM) soybean refinery plant.

For a mayor who has tried hard during his administration to work with local industries in efforts to help solve their problems with city government, his statement takes on added weight. Schwartzkopf is right; something needs to be done quickly and without foot-dragging.

The problem with the obnoxious odors, according to city officials, is that the lagoon cannot adequately treat the sewage because of the excessive amount of grease dumped into it by the soybean refinery plant. A check by the city indicated that ADM's effluent contained 8,000 parts per million of grease — 80 times the amount permitted under the city ordinances. This concentration has reduced the amount of oxygen normally available to bacteria which decomposes the waste.

A meeting this week between city and ADM officials to discuss solutions to the odor problem apparently went unsatisfactorily. "They didn't come up with any solutions," the mayor said. "They didn't answer the questions we kept asking." Schwartzkopf said ADM promised to work on a short-term solution which they will present next week and will begin on a long-range solution. We hope as responsible corporate citizens, they will work quickly to find a satisfactory answer.

City government does not want to penalize ADM. It wants to work together with that company and all other industries in Lincoln for betterment of the community environment. Lincoln seeks new industry and is pleased when industries decide to locate here. But it is not unreasonable to expect that industries should make every effort to abide by city ordinances.

Better Welfare, Social Security

It is a significant and constructive looking welfare reform and Social Security package that has been produced by the House Ways and Means Committee. The measure has a long way to go to finally clear the Congress but the committee has provided a good working foundation.

Adopted by the committee is President Nixon's concept of family assistance, a minimum wage for everyone in the nation. Also approved in limited form is extended federal responsibility for the cost of welfare programs.

Social Security and medicare changes are not so significant in that they maintain the same basic principles and programs with some small improvements.

Incorporated in the family assistance plan is the idea that everyone has to work if he can, a concept insisted upon by the President. We have no argument with this so long as it is not used as a means of harassment by which people are effectively denied the help they honestly need.

Also approved is a program of public works, not endorsed by the President, to give muscle to work-incentive provisions. There is nothing very complicated about this idea, its merits a matter of individual philosophy of government. We believe, however, that a public works program has the potential to achieve something constructive for society as well as providing jobs to many who need them.

This program would standardize welfare benefits across the nation, simplify the program and encourage the goal of individual self-support. Additionally, it would stabilize costs for the states, limiting their maximum liability in the area of welfare.

The House committee has done a creditable job and we hope that Congress proceeds with the same sense of urgency and responsibility.

Wallace Already Pushing Active Campaign; He Seems To Have Lost Strength In Home State

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — At a fund-raising dinner in Dallas Saturday night, Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama was characteristically coy about running for president again in 1972. But here in Wallace's home base, veteran Wallace-watchers are merely amused by his relative reticence: he could no more fail to run, they say, than the Alabama River could fail to flow past this historic old first capital of the Confederacy.

The Dallas dinner, at which Wallace raised $40,000 and complained to a cheering crowd of more than 1,000 that neither major party paid enough attention to the working man, was in itself evidence that the governor has not retired from national contention. There's another, similar dinner ($50 a plate) planned for Nashville, Tenn., later this month and neither Texas nor Tennessee is fertile ground for raising money for strictly local operations in Alabama.

Additional evidence is to be found in "The Wallace Stand," the governor's newspaper, which plays up the two dinners as well as George Wallace watches (the hands end in boxing gloves) at $15.95 (Alabama residents add 6 percent, which tells you something about taxes in Wallace country). With his customary mastery of the nuances of demagoguery, Wallace changed the main headline on this publication overnight from one which had him pledging to pardon Lt. William Calley to a modest proclamation that the lieutenant is a "scapegoat". This transformation, Montgomery sources say with some amusement, followed publication of a Gallup poll that found a majority of Americans against a pardon but convinced of the scapegoat theory.

Even more compelling evidence of 1972 intentions was seen here in the governor's address at the opening of the regular legislative session last week. After showing little interest in politics — in Alabama or elsewhere — during an earlier special session this year, the old slam-bang candidate suddenly reappeared. It was, wrote Don Wasson in the Montgomery Advertiser, "the old magic" on display before crowded galleries and on statewide television: "The manner of delivery, the gestures, the excitement in his voice and the fervor of his address were indeed mindful of the 1968 campaign."

Promising, for instance, to talk "in a lot of places" about the Supreme Court's recent decision in favor of busing school children to achieve desegregation, Wallace observed caustically that "Mr. Nixon said he was against busing. Well, every member he put on the Supreme Court voted

MARQUIS CHILDS

Sadat, Heir To Nasser

If the nine-month truce in the Israeli-Egyptian war can be prolonged through the year, as now seems at least a slight possibility, President Anwar el-Sadat will have an opportunity to concentrate on a long-neglected goal. That is to raise the level of living for a people who for the most part are desperately poor.

Three wars, the disastrous defeat of 1967, the infusion of large amounts of military aid—over 23 years the Egyptian leadership has faced outward. Their energy, the country's resources and an unending flow of propaganda have gone into an effort to confine, if not destroy, Israel. In his first speech since his talks with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Sadat promised that every Egyptian would have a pension for life by this time next year. Given the state of Egypt's finances and the top-heavy bureaucracies, this seems pretty remote. Nevertheless, it is a sign of the direction in which Sadat wants to move.

For the soft-spoken president, the present moment could be a turning point. Closely allied with Gamal Abdel Nasser in the revolution of the young army officers bent on throwing off the yoke of Western "imperialism," Sadat was always less of a firebrand. While the mystique of Nasser and the revolution is still powerful, with portraits of the dead leader everywhere, Sadat has shown that he believes the time has come to confront the facts of life at home.

associates and now Sadat's intimate adviser, describes how Nasser passed the baton of authority to his successor. Having suffered one heart attack, Nasser was due to leave for an Arab summit meeting in Morocco. Rumors were circulating of a variety of plots to assassinate him.

At seven in the morning, he summoned Sadat to his suburban villa. He told him that in the event of his demise, Sadat should assume the presidency. It was the last will and testament of the leader whose flashing charismatic presence had survived even the disaster of 1967.

Over the years the revolution for those who made it has been like a powerful drug, a stimulant, the magical answer to all doubt and difficulties. Sadat has written of nights around desert camp fires when he and Nasser and the other young officers debated until dawn the nature of the revolution they meant to make against the power of Britain that since the era of the consul, Lord Cromer, had exercised a protectorate over Egypt. Several thousand British troops were stationed at critical points along the Suez Canal to insure the safety of what Britain considered the life line of the empire.

"We were young men full of hope," Sadat wrote. "We were brothers in arms, united in friendship and in a common detestation of the existing order of things. Egypt was a sick country. The social and political unrest in Egypt was the theme of our debates."

But the young men full of hope discovered that even with a compelling leader like Nasser, it was one thing to make a revolution and quite another to transform a sick society. After King Farouk was deposed and the British were on the way out Nasser himself wrote in "The Philosophy of Revolution" with something like despair:

"Instead of accomplishing our mission, I realized bitterly, we had only started. We needed discipline but found chaos. We needed unity but found division. We needed hard work but found passivity and indolence."

His heir, Sadat, may now have a chance to make a new start. It is late in the year. The passions of the Palestinian conflict — hate, revenge, bitter frustration — weigh against stability and orderly evolution toward a better life for the masses. Sadat must assure his holdover dissidents in his own government. And there is still, in Nasser's words, a large measure of chaos, division, passivity and indolence to overcome.

On the asset side is a profound longing for peace. One cannot be here for however short a time without sensing how pervasive this longing is. It seems to run through every element. And peace, it is hardly necessary to add, is the absolute essential if Sadat is to have a chance to make a new start.

The apartment houses and hotels rising along the splendid Nile are an elegant but very thin frosting on a sodden cake little changed over the centuries. So much discipline and hard work will be required if there is to be change.

Cigarette Tax

Lincoln, Neb.

I don't smoke or drink, but why hook the cigarette smokers for the fieldhouse when they are already hooked with the cigarette?

I think it shows poor judgment on the part of our legislators. Their salaries were doubled so that we might get better qualified candidates but we might as well put in a few we have on relief and are already feeding.

We could put big Terry in for quarterback and our No. One coach to give pep talks on the sidelines. I am sure then we would get all our money spent.

It would make more sense to use the cigarette tax money to build a hospital for treatment or research for cancer, heart or other diseases that cigarettes contribute to. They might include a tax on drink, and provide hospital space for the treatment of alcoholics.

They are using the farmers to get a tax cut for big business. They sneaked the Beatrice State Home in, for support for the fieldhouse.

The Challenge

Lincoln, Neb.

I wish to thank the thousands of Lincoln citizens who endorsed a desire for improvement in our school system by voting for me in the election last week. I had the opportunity to meet and talk with hundreds and find out their concerns about our children. While I will not be privileged to serve as a representative on the Board of Education, as others will have that responsibility, the concerns should be voiced to them as they were to me.

The size of the vote for me surely will indicate that many of the issues I nominated during the campaign do truly exist and demand attention and action. That will be the challenge to the board members who were elected. It will be their duty to continue to speak out, as I will, to our elected and appointed school officials about individual concerns and to actively work within the local schools to obtain the higher quality education that citizens indicated they want and their children deserve.

The campaign was a most rewarding experience for me personally and I will continue to work for the educational welfare of children in whatever way seems most beneficial.

EVENTS

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Have you ever had the feeling that you had been where you are before or that you had met in the past someone to whom you are just being introduced? You may have that feeling about a lot of the news this week, that you had read it before.

The news is not really that old but public officials and others seem to keep bringing up the same old subjects, most of them pretty tired. The House has revived the supersonic transport battle by changing an appropriation for termination of the program into one for its continuation.

We cannot for the life of us see why this nation would want to get back into this matter. One proponent of the program even cited the international troubles of the dollar as support of his position in favor of further funding for the SST.

Maybe we just don't understand the situation but we have been led to believe that part of the problem with the dollar is the lack of fiscal discipline on our domestic scene. The dollar is weak here in our own country which tends to weaken it also in other nations of the land.

What it gets down to in very simple terms is that if the dollar is worth nothing here, it is worth nothing anywhere. One way to make the dollar worth a little more is to stop making it so cheaply, stop pumping it out as though it were confetti for a parade. And one way to tighten up a little on it is to keep the SST on the trash heap where it is and where it belongs.

But U.S. law-makers are not the only ones on a merry-go-round. State senators, it seems, spend a tremendous amount of time with matters that have been disposed of at some time or other in the past. We wonder sometimes if there is ever really a completely new issue in the Legislature.

This may put a premium on experience but that is often about all you can say for it. This week, for instance, senators killed a move to remove the state from federal daylight savings regulations, an issue we have wrestled with time and time again.

The big argument is that the summer time is bad for agriculture. From what we have heard, we would assume that it is true that a lot of farmers don't particularly like daylight savings time but it is difficult to understand how the program can be any substantial liability or problem for them.

We really cannot believe that today's farmers are so engrossed in their work that daylight savings time removes them from all contact with the rest of the world. We frankly think that a lot of the agricultural complaint about daylight savings is so much sour grapes.

At any rate, we are pleased that the Legislature has again gone on record in favor of daylight savings, a system that we suspect is approved by a vast majority of Nebraskans. And we would hope that the issue has now permanently been laid to rest.

Sen. Terry Carpenter kept the pot boiling with some more leftovers this week. Carpenter is by far the most fascinating member of the Legislature and it would be interesting to see him in action at some other level of government.

It is surprising, in fact, that he has not enjoyed more success in the political arena beyond his Scottsbluff constituency.

Maybe the veteran law-maker will make another stab at things in 1972, taking on Sen. Carl Curtis for the U.S. Senate. It is rumored that he may shift from Republican to Democrat to do just that.

Whether that's a rumor of any substance or not, we have no idea, because Carpenter is about as unpredictable as a man could be. And that may be part of the reason why he has not enjoyed a great deal of success beyond the Legislature.

At any rate, he tried this week to reinstate the tax on intangibles. This would mean a mill levy against stocks and bonds, both domestic and foreign.

This, too, Nebraska has hashed over many times and repeatedly come to the conclusion that the assets of the measure do not come up to its liabilities. It's a great idea to tax the so-called rich stock and bond holders but they have a way of making that penalty hurt others by taking their wealth out of Nebraska.

Fireworks Pop In Right Past Customs

WASHINGTON — Fireworks Smuggling — Mafia fireworks hustlers are scheming to sneak high-powered Singapore firecrackers past customs inspectors in time for July 4. Probable entry port will be Los Angeles or Baltimore. In the past, the Mafia fireworks men have joked about the ease with which they slipped contraband fireworks past the supposedly keen-eyed customs men. They avoided high duties by labeling their fireworks "Container made in U.S." thus cutting down the customs assessment. A schoolboy could have opened up the cones and tubes and found the containers were made from old Hong Kong newspapers.

Land Barons — The Bureau of Reclamation tried valiantly to get the Justice Department to appeal a court decision favoring the land barons and undercutting small family farms in California's Imperial Valley. But the Bureau was turned down after big GOP contributors took their case directly to Justice.

Nixon's Research — President Nixon has refused to spend $12 billion plus that Congress has voted for projects he doesn't like. To quiet congressional rumbling, the directed aides to search through George Washington's papers for a precedent. As far as they could find, Washington spent all the money Congress gave him. However, the White House aides finally came up with a $50,000 appropriation for gunboats that Thomas Jefferson turned back. Painless Tax? — The Treasury Department, looking for a less painful way to raise revenue, has come up with a new tax that would sock those in the middle and lower brackets. Still in the study state, this is called the "value-added tax." Companies would calculate their total costs and profits, then add the tax, which would be passed on to the consumers in the form of higher prices. In effect, this would be a national sales tax.

Kremlin Czar — Leonid Brezhnev emerged from last month's communist congress as the No. 1 man in the Kremlin's ruling triumvirate. His name suddenly has taken on new luster, and his portraits are blossoming like spring flowers throughout the Soviet Union. It looks as if the Kremlin, which so often has denounced the cult of personality, is building up a new personality.

Under the Dome — Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., who has been called upon to investigate the FBI, has told friends privately: "I don't know anything (FBI chief J. Edgar) Hoover has ever done that I'd criticize." ... Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., is so concerned about U.S. neglect of Latin America that he intends to concentrate on the problem. As the first step, he has hired a Cuban graduate student to come to his house at 7 a.m. every day to teach him Spanish.

City-Industry Cooperation

"It's a stinking mess and our citizens shouldn't be subjected to it," said Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf this week, referring to the odor from the northeast Lincoln sewage treatment lagoon caused by effluent from the Archer Daniels Midland (ADM) soybean refinery plant.

For a mayor who has tried hard during his administration to work with local industries in efforts to help solve their problems with city government, his statement takes on added weight. Schwartzkopf is right; something needs to be done quickly and without foot-dragging.

The problem with the obnoxious odors, according to city officials, is that the lagoon cannot adequately treat the sewage because of the excessive amount of grease dumped into it by the soybean refinery plant. A check by the city indicated that ADM's effluent contained 8,000 parts per million of grease — 80 times the amount permitted under the city ordinances. This concentration has reduced the amount of oxygen normally available to bacteria which decomposes the waste.

A meeting this week between city and ADM officials to discuss solutions to the odor problem apparently went unsatisfactorily. "They didn't come up with any solutions," the mayor said. "They didn't answer the questions we kept asking." Schwartzkopf said ADM promised to work on a short-term solution which they will present next week and will begin on a long-range solution. We hope as responsible corporate citizens, they will work quickly to find a satisfactory answer.

City government does not want to penalize ADM; it wants to work together with that company and all other industries in Lincoln for betterment of the community environment. Lincoln seeks new industry and is pleased when industries decide to locate here. But it is not unreasonable to expect that industries should make every effort to abide by city ordinances.

Better Welfare, Social Security

It is a significant and constructive looking welfare reform and Social Security package that has been produced by the House Ways and Means Committee. The measure has a long way to go to finally clear the Congress but the committee has provided a good working foundation.

Adopted by the committee is President Nixon's concept of family assistance, a minimum wage for everyone in the nation. Also approved in limited form is extended federal responsibility for the cost of welfare programs.

Social Security and medicare changes are not so significant in that they maintain the same basic principles and programs with some small improvements.

Incorporated in the family assistance plan is the idea that everyone has to work if he can, a concept insisted upon by the President. We have no argument with this so long as it is not used as a means of harassment by which people are effectively denied the help they honestly need.

Also approved is a program of public works, not endorsed by the President, to give muscle to work-incentive provisions. There is nothing very complicated about this idea, its merits a matter of individual philosophy of government. We believe, however, that a public works program has the potential to achieve something constructive for society as well as providing jobs to many who need them.

This program would standardize welfare benefits across the nation, simplify the program and encourage the goal of individual self-support. Additionally, it would stabilize costs for the states, limiting their maximum liability in the area of welfare.

The House committee has done a creditable job and we hope that Congress proceeds with the same sense of urgency and responsibility.

Wallace Already Pushing Active Campaign; He Seems To Have Lost Strength In Home State

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — At a fund-raising dinner in Dallas Saturday night, Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama was characteristically coy about running for president again in 1972. But here in Wallace's home base, veteran Wallace-watchers are merely amused by his relative reticence; he could no more fail to run, they say, than the Alabama River could fail to flow past this historic old first capital of the Confederacy.

The Dallas dinner, at which Wallace raised $40,000 and complained to a cheering crowd of more than 1,000 that neither major party paid enough attention to the working man, was in itself evidence that the governor has not retired from national contention. There's another, similar dinner ($50 a plate) planned for Nashville, Tenn., later this month and neither Texas nor Tennessee is fertile ground for raising money for strictly local operations in Alabama.

Additional evidence is to be found in "The Wallace Stand," the governor's newspaper, which plays up the two dinners as well as George Wallace watches (the hands end in boxing gloves) at $15.95 (Alabama residents add 6 percent, which tells you something about taxes in Wallace country). With his customary mastery of the nuances of demagoguery, Wallace changed the main headline on this publication overnight from one which had him pledging to pardon Lt. William Calley to a modest proclamation that the lieutenant is a "scapegoat." This transformation, Montgomery sources say with some amusement, followed publication of a Gallup poll that found a majority of Americans against a pardon but convinced of the scapegoat theory.

Even more compelling evidence of 1972 intentions was seen here in the governor's address at the opening of the regular legislative session last week. After showing little interest in politics — in Alabama or elsewhere — during an earlier special session this year, the old slam-bang candidate suddenly reappeared.

It was, wrote Don Wasson in the Montgomery Advertiser, "the old magic" on display before crowded galleries and on statewide television: "The manner of delivery, the gestures, the excitement in his voice and the fervor of his address were indeed mindful of the 1968 campaign."

Promising, for instance, to talk "in a lot of places" about the Supreme Court's recent decision in favor of busing school children to achieve desegregation, Wallace observed caustically that "Mr. Nixon said he was against busing. Well, every member he put on the Supreme Court voted for busing. He ought to have talked to them about it before he appointed them to the Supreme Court."

So it is taken for granted among those who know Wallace best that he is already running, although they believe his emphasis this time will be on the South and on building a maximum electoral vote total below the Potomac. What his chances are remain to be seen; the busing decision undoubtedly gave him new ammunition and hurt President Nixon, but on the other hand, progressive new governors in Florida, Georgia, South Carolina and Arkansas, and Republican governors in Tennessee and Virginia, will certainly fight Wallace hard.

Gov. Winfield Dunn of Tennessee, where Wallace ran strongly in 1968, says, for instance, that Nixon will win a lot of former Wallace voters in 1972; but knowledgeable Tennessee Democrats scoff at that. Not only is Wallace still strong, in their view, but any of his defectors — probably having been Democrats in the first place — are likely to vote for a Democrat who promises them more economically than the President will be able to do.

What seems to interest thoughtful Alabama observers more, these days, than Wallace's 1972 prospects is his long-term future. One of the main reasons they are confident

MARQUIS CHILDS

Sadat, Heir To Nasser

If the nine-month truce in the Israeli-Egyptian war can be prolonged through the year, as now seems at least a slight possibility, President Anwar el-Sadat will have an opportunity to concentrate on a long-neglected goal. That is to raise the level of living for a people who for the most part are desperately poor.

Three wars, the disastrous defeat of 1967, the infusion of large amounts of military aid—over 23 years the Egyptian leadership has faced outward. Their energy, the country's resources and an unending flow of propaganda have gone into an effort to confine, if not destroy, Israel. In his first speech since his talks with Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Sadat promised that every Egyptian would have a pension for life by this time next year. Given the state of Egypt's finances and the top-heavy bureaucracies, this seems pretty remote. Nevertheless, it is a sign of the direction in which Sadat wants to move.

For the soft-spoken president, the present moment could be a turning point. Closely allied with Gamal Abdel Nasser in the revolution of the young army officers bent on throwing off the yoke of Western "imperialism," Sadat was always less of a firebrand. While the mystique of Nasser and the revolution is still powerful, with portraits of the dead leader everywhere, Sadat has shown that he believes the time has come to confront the facts of life at home.

associates and now Sadat's intimate adviser, describes how Nasser passed the baton of authority to his successor. Having suffered one heart attack, Nasser was due to leave for an Arab summit meeting in Morocco. Rumors were circulating of a variety of plots to assassinate him.

At seven in the morning, he summoned Sadat to his suburban villa. He told him that in the event of his demise, Sadat should assume the presidency. It was the last will and testament of the leader whose flashing charismatic presence had survived even the disaster of 1967.

Over the years the revolution for those who made it has been like a powerful drug, a stimulant, the magical answer to all doubt and difficulties. Sadat has written of nights around desert camp fires when he and Nasser and the other young officers debated until dawn the nature of the revolution they meant to make against the power of Britain that since the era of the consul, Lord Cromer, had exercised a protectorate over Egypt. Sen. Ziebarth To Seek Election Of All Convention Delegates

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox Thursday said he will ask the Legislature to "choose between the people and the parties" by proposing that the voters retain the right to name all delegates to national political conventions.

Pending in the Unicameral is a revised version of LB661, an elections bill which would give the parties the authority to choose four 1972 delegates at their state conventions. Delegates are now elected by the people. Two are elected from each of the three congressional districts, and the remainder are elected statewide.

Four Statewide

Ziebarth will propose an amendment to LB661 which would give the people the right to elect four 1972 delegates statewide and the remainder from congressional districts.

"The people should elect all of them," the Wilcox legislator said.

"Every candidate for delegate should have to stand the test of election, regardless of whether he is a recognized leader of the party or not."

Up To Unicam

"The Legislature should choose whether a few people who represent the parties are going to be able to name some of the delegates, or whether the people will decide."

The question will raise "an issue of political boss control," he said.

Ziebarth, a Democrat, is a possible 1972 candidate for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Republican Carl Curtis.

His proposal will be supported by Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln, a Republican.

Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha, a Democrat, served notice that he too will support the Ziebarth plan.

"The people would make the wisest choices," Mahoney said. "We should let the people decide."

LB661 would turn over to the parties the task of selecting alternate delegates to the national conventions. They too are now elected by the people.

The plan for delegate selection in LB661 was offered by Sen. William Swanson of Lincoln, a Republican, who said it had the support of officials of both the Democratic and Republican Parties.

Under the allotment of delegates in 1972, Republicans will send 16 delegates to their national convention. Democrats will name 22 delegates.

Solons Give County Boards Authority Over Reappraisals

By United Press International
The Legislature decided Thursday County boards should determine whether a reappraisal of property tax valuations should be done.

The action came in the form of rejecting an amendment to a bill, LB945, which would have required voter approval before embarking on a reappraisal.

Sponsor of the bill, Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, had offered the amendment, but after others objected to it he moved it be rejected saying it didn't make any difference to him.

The Scottsbluff lawmaker has filed a suit contesting a recent reappraisal done in his home county of Scotts Bluff.

One of the opponents, Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance, noting present law says if regular reappraisal is not accomplished the state tax commissioner could take over and see it is done, said the commissioner "would be coming every year."

Before the bill was given a 26-0 first round vote of approval by the lawmakers, an amendment was adopted aimed at equalizing property tax support of schools.

The amendment was offered by Sen. Herb Duis of Gothenberg, who said it was developed by former state tax commissioner Murrell McNeil.

Duis said the amendment contained a formula to be used in figuring tax rates when a school district covers more than one county. He said it would insure "the same dollar support" from each county.

The amended version of the bill would move the property tax due date back one month to Dec. 1 following the levy. Carpenter said this would allow the taxpayer to use the levy in figuring his federal income taxes.

Sen. Ziebarth To Seek Election Of All Convention Delegates

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Sen. Wayne Ziebarth of Wilcox Thursday said he will ask the Legislature to "choose between the people and the parties" by proposing that the voters retain the right to name all delegates to national political conventions.

Pending in the Unicameral is a revised version of LB661, an elections bill which would give the parties the authority to choose four 1972 delegates at their state conventions. Delegates are now elected by the people. Two are elected from each of the three congressional districts, and the remainder are elected statewide.

mainder are elected statewide.

Four Statewide

Ziebarth will propose an amendment to LB661 which would give the people the right to elect four 1972 delegates statewide and the remainder from congressional districts.

"The people should elect all of them," the Wilcox legislator said.

"Every candidate for delegate should have to stand the test of election, regardless of whether he is a recognized leader of the party or not."

Up To Unicam

"The Legislature should choose whether a few people who represent the parties are going to be able to name some of the delegates, or whether the people will decide."

The question will raise "an issue of political boss control," he said.

Ziebarth, a Democrat, is a possible 1972 candidate for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Republican Carl Curtis.

His proposal will be supported by Sen. Wally Barnett of Lincoln, a Republican.

Sen. Eugene Mahoney of Omaha, a Democrat, served notice that he too will support the Ziebarth plan.

"The people would make the wisest choices," Mahoney said. "We should let the people decide."

LB661 would turn over to the parties the task of selecting alternate delegates to the national conventions. They too are now elected by the people.

The plan for delegate selection in LB661 was offered by Sen. William Swanson of Lincoln, a Republican, who said it had the support of officials of both the Democratic and Republican Parties.

Under the allotment of delegates in 1972, Republicans will send 16 delegates to their national convention. Democrats will name 22 delegates.

Solons Give County Boards Authority Over Reappraisals

By United Press International

The Legislature decided Thursday County boards should determine whether a reappraisal of property tax valuations should be done.

The action came in the form of rejecting an amendment to a bill, LB945, which would have required voter approval before embarking on a reappraisal.

Sponsor of the bill, Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, had offered the amendment, but after others objected to it he moved it be rejected saying it didn't make any difference to him.

The Scottsbluff lawmaker has filed a suit contesting a recent reappraisal done in his home county of Scotts Bluff.

One of the opponents, Sen. Leslie Stull of Alliance, noting present law says if regular reappraisal is not accomplished the state tax commissioner could take over and see it is done, said the commissioner "would be coming every year."

Before the bill was given a 26-0 first round vote of approval by the lawmakers, an amendment was adopted aimed at equalizing property tax support of schools.

The amendment was offered by Sen. Herb Duis of Gothenburg, who said it was developed by former state tax commissioner Murrell McNeil.

Duis said the amendment contained a formula to be used in figuring tax rates when a school district covers more than one county. He said it would insure "the same dollar support" from each county.

The amended version of the bill would move the property tax due date back one month to Dec. 1 following the levy. Carpenter said this would allow the taxpayer to use the levy in figuring his federal income taxes.

Museum Future Is Meeting Topic

The 15th Annual Conference of Directors of Systematic Collections (museums) will be conducted Thursday and Friday at the Nebraska Center.

According to Dr. C. Bertrand Schultz, director of the University of Nebraska State Museum, approximately 40 directors and observers from throughout the United States and Canada will discuss "the future of great collections — how to maintain and use them."

Supreme Court Reapportionment Is Advanced

By The Associated Press
A measure to reapportion the State Supreme Court districts, according to the 1970 census won first-round approval in the Legislature Thursday.

At the same time, lawmakers took LB954, the bill to reapportion the Legislature, off its scheduled Friday final reading and amended the measure slightly.

The amendment was tacked on to LB594 and the bill was then readvanced, meaning it will come up for final reading consideration early next week. The Supreme Court bill.

LB545, was offered by Sen. Elmer Wallwey of Emerson but he amended it on the floor Thursday to provide that three of the seven districts should include a portion of Douglas County.

Under the terms of the bill, the top limit for unemployment benefits would be raised to $56 a week from the present $48.

Unemployment Benefits Hike Advanced

With no opposition and little debate, the Nebraska Legislature gave first round approval Thursday to a bill which would bring the state's unemployment benefits law into compliance with federal standards.

The lawmakers voted 27-0 to give initial approval to the bill (LB651), chiefly sponsored by Sen. George Syas of Omaha.

Amendment To Exempt Food From State Sales Tax Proposed

By The Associated Press
A proposed constitutional amendment exempting food from state sales tax was introduced Thursday in the Legislature at the request of Gov. J. J. Exon.

The bill would submit to voters in 1972 the proposal which had been turned down by the Legislature earlier by killing LB567, which would have accomplished the same thing by statute.

Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff sponsored the new bill, LB1039, and Sen. William Skarda of Omaha, the author of LB567, added his name to the bill. The measure was placed on general file by a 32-2 vote.

Food Tax Credit
The proposed constitutional amendment, in addition to exempting all food and beverages except alcoholic beverages, would eliminate the 7% food tax credit presently given on state income tax returns.

The measure, considered controversial, will be held for consideration in the 1972 legislative session beginning next January.

Exon's promised attempt to remove the tax from food was one of his major pledges during his successful gubernatorial campaign last fall.

The Legislature earlier this year had passed LB131, raising the tax credit from $7 to $10 per person, but Exon vetoed the bill and an override attempt failed.

Skarda, at Exon's request, sponsored LB567, but the bill was stalled in the Revenue Committee for several months before it was finally brought to the floor when the Legislature approved Skarda's motion to pull the bill from the committee.

Resolution Designed To Keep Young Doctors In State

A resolution was introduced in the Legislature Thursday calling for the University of Nebraska Medical Center to take steps to keep young doctors in the state.

Action was deferred on Resolution No. 74, introduced by Sen. Loran Schmidt of David City, which asks that the medical center give top admission priority to native Nebraskans beginning in 1975. It also asks that the curriculum and internships be directed toward general practice rather than specialization.

Three resolutions won unanimous approval Thursday which:

Nixon To Attend

Washington (AP) — The White House formally announced that President Nixon, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew and their wives will attend dedication ceremonies at the Lyndon B. Johnson library in Austin, Tex., on May 22.

Sweig Appeals

Washington (UPI) — Martin Sweig, former aide to retired speaker John W. McCormack, appealed his perjury conviction to the Supreme Court.

—Approve construction of a parking facility at the NU Medical Center campus in Omaha. LR70.
—Salute the city of Sutton on its centennial. LR72.
—Commend Ray C. Johnson, who served as auditor of public accounts from 1938 to 1970. LR73.

Dr. Soshnik Is Honored During ROTC Review

Dr. Joseph Soshnik, president of the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, was presented a plaque recognizing the support he had given Army ROTC during the annual President's Review held Thursday afternoon in Memorial Stadium.

The presentation was made to Dr. Soshnik by Col. William W. Gist, professor of military science. Other activities of the review included presentation of awards for academic and military achievement and a pass-in-review by the cadet battalion.

Assn. Award, and Cadet Stephen B. Wagner of Lincoln, the General John J. Pershing Gold Medal, as the outstanding member of Pershing Rifles.

The Superior Cadet Awards went to Thomas E. Furtak of Ord; Larry L. Chambers of Phillips; Galen B. Jackson of Lincoln, and Charles J. Barr of Liberty.

Other awards and their recipients:

Cadet Lt. Col. Thomas E. Furtak of Ord was awarded the Col. C. J. Frankforter Gold Medal for having achieved the highest rating of an NU cadet at summer camp. Cadet Maj. Dale B. Smith of Sloan, Iowa, was given the second place Silver Medal, and Cadet Maj. Nels R. Anderson of Wahoo the third place Bronze Medal.

The American Legion Military Excellence Gold Medal went to Cadet Maj. Gerald R. Wirth of Nebraska City and the Silver Medal to Cadet Charles G. Sheets of Cozad.

Cadet Capt. Richard K. Butcher of Morrill won the American Legion Scholarship Excellence Gold Medal and Cadet Jon A. Elliott of Omaha the Silver Medal.

Cadet Norman A. Gebhard of Grand Island was presented the Daughters of Founders and Patriots of America Award; Charles D. Hall of Lincoln, the National Defense Transportation

19 Appropriations Bills Get Initial OK

The Legislature Thursday gave initial floor approval to 19 appropriations bills which would increase the state tax supported general fund budget by more than $750,000.

The bills would fund new or expanded programs either approved by the lawmakers or awaiting a final decision on the floor.

Among them was a $143,625 appropriation to add five District Court judges statewide.

That measure, LB877, advanced on a 36-0 vote, would add one judge each in Douglas County, Hall County, Scotts Bluff County, Dodge-Washington Counties and the judicial district centered in North Platte.

Its appropriations rider, cleared the first floor barrier, on a 29-1 count.

The funding bills would bring the Legislature close to the point where expenditures will surpass the income limits of a 2½% sales and a 13% personal income tax.

The Legislature's budget-spending blackboard, which attempts to keep a running tally of its current fiscal condition, indicates that only $714,942 remains as a cushion between approved spending and projected tax limits.

But those figures could be misleading since the Legislature's Appropriation Committee reduced Gov. J. James Exon's operational budget recommendation and the governor's budget assumed a $1 million revenue loss from repeal of the sales tax on food.

Lawmakers have already declined to repeal that tax, thus capturing $4 million in revenue not anticipated in Exon's budget figures.

Among the funding bills which were sent on their way across the legislative board were appropriations for explosives control, administration of new student loans, increased salaries for District Court reporters and consolidation of pollution control activities in a single agency.

Other bills would fund increased care and education of multihandicapped children, the addition of retired teachers to the reserve teacher rolls, a drug control act and creation of a new Department of Tourism.

Advancement of the measures will put the Legislature in position to approve the funding bills if the affected programs are enacted.

Lawmakers are scheduled to consider the operational budget bill on final reading Friday. Debate on the capital construction budget bill is tentatively scheduled for next Monday.

DeCamp Plans New Resolution On Withdrawal

The legislature will once again be asked to request Congress and President Nixon to set a definite date for the withdrawal of all American troops from Vietnam, Sen. John DeCamp of Neligh revealed Thursday.

DeCamp said he would make his request in the form of a resolution Friday. The measure will be laid over one day and then will be taken up Monday, according to the rules of the Legislature.

Want a thick green lawn without dandelions?

Then feed it as you weed it!

All you do is spread Scotts PLUS-2 on your lawn. It gets rid of dandelions, easily and surely. Makes them curl up and disappear, root and all. And not just dandelions. PLUS-2 also clears out plantain, buckhorn, chickweed, clover and many other common lawn weeds.

Fertilizes too. When the weeds are gone you'll notice that the lawn is greener and thicker than before. That's because every bag of PLUS-2 also contains a full feeding of Turf Builder, which helps your grass fill in where the weeds used to be.

When to use. You can spread PLUS-2 anytime after dandelions come in bloom. You won't see any sudden results. But one day you'll realize the weeds have simply vanished. And your lawn is thicker and greener. It's as easy as that.

5,000 sq ft (20 lbs) 7.95
10,000 sq ft (40 lbs) 14.95

There's still time to prevent ugly crabgrass!

2,500 sq ft (11 lbs) 7.95
5,000 sq ft (22 lbs) 14.95

The answer is Scotts Halts Plus. Spread it on your lawn right now — before temperatures are regularly in the 80's. It sets up a barrier that prevents crabgrass from showing its ugly head this year. Halts Plus also fertilizes your lawn at the same time. Makes your grass grow thicker, greener, sturdier. All from a single application.

Footlights & Canvas

Good morning, Summer is on its way, if not already here. For those avidly interested in the fine arts, this season will provide an exciting array of activities.

For those of you who are keen to hear the 'roar of the greasepaint,' the summer Cabaret theatre at the Community Playhouse will offer two exciting musicals. Cast roles for these already have been filled, but there is always room for those interested in technical lighting, or back stage work. Also this summer, the University of Nebraska Theatre will offer a summer repertory program consisting of three major productions. Tickets for these productions are available now, but going fast.

On cool summer evenings a drive to Brownville — to Wesleyan's Village Theatre — will find you enjoying either a Neil Simon comedy or one of the other dramatic productions. Brownville will also sponsor an Art Festival, during this summer, which will attract artists from all over the state. Last year there were over 300 paintings on display at this festival. However before you enter any art contest, perhaps it would be best to brush up on techniques by taking art lessons at the Haymarket Gallery. Under the artistic viewpoint of Jerry Jacobi, and Jean James, a mere interest could be turned into a profitable hobby. Lessons are already under way, but there are still a few openings, for late comers.

Summer workshops in the fine arts area will be offered by Concordia State Teacher's College. A two-and-a-half-week long workshop will cover a specific area of music, art or drama. On the lighter side, evenings at the Gaslight Theatre will enlighten you on the art of Mellerdrama, and afternoons at Pinewood Bowl will consist of light operettas.

Summer will offer many varied experiences for those willing to become involved in the fine arts. It will not only give young artists and actors an opportunity to express themselves in experimental forms, but give residents of Lincoln a chance to participate and view fine productions.

Please join us.

ELIJAH'S COMING . . . to the University of Nebraska Coliseum, this Sunday May 16. The oratorio based on the Biblical story of the Prophet Elijah, will feature renowned baritone William Warfield, and three soloists from the School of Music. Tenor soloist Raymond Miller; soprano soloist, Lorraine Gibb, and contralto soloist Kathy Harney, will perform with the Choral Union and the N.U. Orchestra. The program is free and open to the public and will begin at 8 o'clock.

LAURELS FOR ARTISTS . . . Judges for the Lincoln Artist's Guild Spring Show, has just announced the winners. The first prize of $75 goes to Gladys Lester for her acrylic titled "Birthplace." Donna Barclay won the second prize of $50 for her batik wall hanging, "Patterns," and an acrylic geo-metrical abstract, titled "Three Illusions" by Steven Lahr won the third prize of $25. The judges awarded three honorable mentions: to Carmen Esquenazi for an acrylic ("Still Life"); to Julia Saski for an oil ("Antelope Creek,") and to Joyce Holmgren for her pottery. Judges, Professor Gail Butt from the University of Nebraska, and Professor Maynard Whitney from Nebraska Wesleyan, selected the winners from over 255 entries. The Artist Guild's Spring show will open this Saturday, May 15, at the Miller and Paine 4th floor auditorium and will continue through May 22. The show is free and open to the public, and over 11 works are on display. The public also is invited to vote for their favorite entry and the work receiving the most public votes will be awarded recognition from the Guild. There is a tremendous output of talent exhibited in this show and we would urge all fine art enthusiasts to attend.

HAMBURGER CUM PICKLES . . . and onions in ceramics is being offered by Koenig Art Gallery in Seward. Lined in a cafeteria style, the "fool the eye" realistic pieces offer other delectables as well. Included in the exhibit are over 150 works in a variety of media, such as graphics, and oil. Chosen as the best of all student shows, pieces are reasonably priced and are on sale until May 20. Koenig Gallery is situated on the grounds of Concordia Teachers College, in Seward.

Dinner Honors Museum Directors

The all-day discussions were exceedingly scientific when the Systematic Collectors were in session on Thursday at the Nebraska Center. It was the 15th annual conference for the group, which is composed of the directors of the large Museums of Natural History in the United States and Canada, and the conference was held in Lincoln this year in celebration of Nebraska's Centennial. On hand for the meeting, also, were observers from Natural Science Foundations.

After a full day of scientific matters the conferees were ready for a little relaxation and they had it — at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Woods Jr., who entertained the group at dinner at their home.

Ill.; Dr. Richard Cowan, Director of the Museum of Natural History at the Smithsonian Institute in Washington, D.C.; Mrs. Thomas C. Woods Jr.; and Dr. Bertrand Schultz, Director of the University of Nebraska State Museum in Lincoln.

Talk Around The Town

Lincoln has every right to take a deep bow this week. The city has been host to interesting people for whom it rolled out the red carpet.

We'll talk about this in another moment or two, but right now we have Friday evening on our mind.

This evening Mr. and Mrs. Arthur H. Yost will be host and hostess at dinner at their home when they entertain in pre-nuptial courtesy to their son, John Yost — and his fiancée Miss Mary Catherine Dean.

Among the guests will be numerous out of town members of the families who are in Lincoln to attend the wedding of Miss Dean and Mr. Yost which takes place on Saturday afternoon.

Included among the out-of-towners will be Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dean of Sullivan, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Harmon, Richard Goddard, all of Northwood, Iowa; Miss Patricia Goddard of Warrensburg, Mo.; Ann Yost Yates of Scottsdale, Ariz., and the Misses Shirley and Shelley Yost of Denver.

Now back to Wednesday and the arrival of visitors from Milan, Italy. The group of sixteen was composed of members of the Italian Department of Agriculture, plus a few contractors — and an interpreter or two.

The trip to the United States was sponsored by the Caterpillar Co. of Italy, and is for the purpose of studying land development and irrigation.

On Wednesday the guests from Italy were entertained at luncheon at the University Club by the Lincoln Equipment Co., with Robert Lassen in the role of host. From Lincoln the visitors from Italy went to Grand Island — and on Saturday they will leave for Fresno, Calif.

Thursday brought 15 Mexican economists to Lincoln. The group included college students and graduate students, from universities in Mexico, who are traveling under the sponsorship of the United States Department of State.

Honoring the members of the visiting groups were Mr. and Mrs. William Dahlstrom who are members of the Mayor's Committee, who entertained at dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Hillegass. And perhaps you already know that Mrs. Hillegass is a member of the People To People committee.

MISS PAMELA ERSKINE

This morning Mr. and Mrs. Orest N. Erskine make announcement of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Pamela Jane, to Philip Charles Troupe, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Troupe of Oakland.

The wedding will take place on Friday, Aug. 6.

Miss Erskine is a junior at the University of Nebraska where she is majoring in business administration.

Mr. Troupe is a senior in the University of Nebraska College of Business Administration, and also is majoring in broadcast-journalism. He is a member of Alpha Epsilon Rho, national radio-TV honorary.

on a tour of the shops Special Guests, Officers Honored

It's spring and that means spring housecleaning. Every homemaker wants to make her home fresh, bright — and most of all inviting — for summer.

We felt that way, too, so we wandered into a few interior decorating shops while out on our shopping tour. We were searching for some new ideas about what we could do with our homes.

The news was so exciting that we just had to share it with you. Grab your hat and bag and join us on our tour of the shops!

AT MANOR HOUSE

Most of the items we found are so versatile that they will fit into an office, study, den, recreation room, living room, or for that matter, into any room in the house.

Take, for example, the contemporary chair we found at Manor House — It was done in red burlap and chrome. The back is low, but not so low that support is lacking, and the style will fit into most any setting. Another comfortable occasional chair that caught our eye, and will yours, is of black leather and walnut, with a matching ottoman. Unlike the red chairs with their square lines, this chair and ottoman feature curving, geometric styling.

Everyone plays the part of a director at one time or another — whether it be directing the activities in an office or directing home activities. No wonder directors' chairs have become popular in the most contemporary homes. The directors' chairs we found at Manor House have finished wood frames which support navy canvas seats and back rests.

Box Parson tables can be made any height, size and color to fit into any room you choose. The particular ones that caught our fancy were constructed of wood and covered with formica in several shades of the hot colors — bright orange, yellow, blue, green, and so forth — as well as white and black.

Credenzas, of course, have been around for a long time and can be used in bedrooms, living rooms and dining rooms. By the way, one would be perfect for serving a buffet. One of our favorites at Manor House is of walnut in a contemporary styling.

Also a good find at Manor House was a cocktail table with solid sides. The unusual part of the table is that the top slides out to reveal a black formica top — and that isn't all — there are two leather-topped cubes underneath which serve as stools — to give an Oriental touch or for just cozying up the table!

Accessories, as ever, are important for tying any room together. We were informed that abstract prints are very much in demand at Manor House. The colors make the prints — being of neon shades — and the sun in the print called "The World Beyond" is practically blinding.

Carpet was used to make the gray, black and white wall hanging that resembles a tree. Other accent pieces we found there include brass sculptures, lanterns, cork lamps, rubber tree plants, a round clock face on a five foot stem, unusual cocktail tables — and a zebra skin rug complete with tail and mane.

AT INTERIORS DIVERSIFIED

We peered into their "old" residence on South Street and discovered that they had packed up and moved their shingle to 132 South 13th St. With the move came another move — from a variety of styles including Oriental, Mediterranean, and contemporary — to simply contemporary.

Among the natural contemporary designs we found a wood rocking chair with a rattan back accompanied by an aqua blue tweed head rest and seat cushion for those of you who wish to rock in comfort and style. Another natural chair setting with the hassock is done in natural canvas, naturally, supported by a circular stem frame in dark wood.

One of our "finds" included square and rectangular glass cocktail tables that are suspended on square wood frames. We discovered that the tables don't just plop down in front of the couch any more, with two square tables one can place the pair together in a variety of positions in front of the couch or at the side as end tables. The larger rectangular table serves the same purpose, but stands alone.

Accessories as ever can make or break the room. We found that the new color in decorator pillows is shimmery silver which adds that special glow to a room of any color scheme.

George Kovac is "lighting up" all over in ultra-contemporary light designs in plexiglass and chrome. Interiors Diversified features his styles in "crazy legs," a floor lamp with a chrome stem music stand with a white spotlight cover; "grapefruit on a tin can," white opal glass globe held on a round chrome base; and a floor lamp with a chrome stand, smoke plexiglass globe "shade" enclosing three translucent bulbs.

In the Gourmet Corner we found two dining room sets — one in a circular design in white and chrome and the second of a wood with a rectangular table and cane chairs.

Among the kitchen wares were smoke plexiglass oval and square canisters with black lids, cookware in orange and black by Finel of Finland, the new Danish crystal by Kastrup Holmegaard in Scandia and Tivoli designs.

In the fabric line, Marimekko material from Design Research has introduced a new line of their bold designs all ready to mount for wall hangings, whip up into pillow cases, curtains, clothes, and we must admit... there is no end to ideas for what to do with the fabulous fabric.

Farewells are always unpleasant, but they can be easier to take if you know there is a sunny horizon ahead.

So it was when Mrs. Joseph Soshnik, wife of the retiring president of the University of Nebraska Lincoln Campus, made her final appearance — as a member — at the university's Faculty Women's Club's last function of the year on Wednesday afternoon, May 12.

Also on hand for the event were the wives of more than 20 state senators, as well as Mrs. J. J. Exon, wife of Nebraska's governor.

The luncheon, which was held at the NU Student Union, was highlighted by the installation of officers. Mrs. John L. Adams was named president for the coming year; Mrs. William Thornton, first vice president; Mrs. Larry K. Andrews, second vice president; Mrs. Francis A. Haskins, third vice president; Mrs. Dale L. Gibbs, secretary; and Mrs. Herbert Schliesser, treasurer.

president of the Legislative Ladies League; Mrs. John L. Adams; Mrs. Ramey C. Whitney of Chappell, president of the Legislative Ladies League; Mrs. Joseph Soshnik, and Mrs. J. J. Exon.

on a tour of the shops

It's spring and that means spring housecleaning. Every-homemaker wants to make her home fresh, bright — and most of all inviting—for summer.

We felt that way, too, so we wandered into a few interior decorating shops while out on our shopping tour. We were searching for some new ideas about what we could do with our homes.

The news was so exciting that we just had to share it with you. Grab your hat and bag and join us on our tour of the shops!

AT MANOR HOUSE

Most of the items we found are so versatile that they will fit into an office, study, den, recreation room, living room, or for that matter, into any room in the house.

Take, for example, the contemporary chair we found at Manor House — It was done in red burlap and chrome. The back is low, but not so low that support is lacking, and the style will fit into most any setting. Another comfortable occasional chair that caught our eye, and will yours, is of black leather and walnut, with a matching ottoman. Unlike the red chairs with their square lines, this chair and ottoman feature curving, geometric styling.

Everyone plays the part of a director at one time or another — whether it be directing the activities in an office or directing home activities. No wonder directors' chairs have become popular in the most contemporary homes. The directors' chairs we found at Manor House have finished wood frames which support navy canvas seats and back rests.

Box Parson tables can be made any height, size and color to fit into any room you choose. The particular ones that caught our fancy were constructed of wood and covered with formica in several shades of the hot colors — bright orange, yellow, blue, green, and so forth — as well as white and black.

Credenzas, of course, have been around for a long time and can be used in bedrooms, living rooms and dining rooms. By the way, one would be perfect for serving a buffet. One of our favorites at Manor House is of walnut in a contemporary styling.

Also a good find at Manor House was a cocktail table with solid sides. The unusual part of the table is that the top slides out to reveal a black formica top — and that isn't all — there are two leather-topped cubes underneath which serve as stools — to give an Oriental touch or for just cozying up the table!

Accessories, as ever, are important for tying any room together. We were informed that abstract prints are very much in demand at Manor House. The colors make the prints — being of neon shades — and the sun in the print called "The World Beyond" is practically blinding.

Closing Arguments Set In Pen Inmate's Trial For Holding Hostages

By GERRY SWITZER
Star Staff Writer

Without any evidence produced by the defendant, a Lancaster District Court jury of five women and seven men will hear closing arguments Friday in the trial of one of the Penitentiary inmates charged in connection with a Sept. 1 incident in which two guards were held hostage for some 20 hours.

At the conclusion of the state's evidence produced Thursday, Deputy Public Defender Richard Goos, representing Clarence Eckstein, 21, told the court that the defense had no evidence to present in the case.

Eckstein has pleaded innocent to a felony charge of being an inmate detaining another specifically for compelling or inducing the performance of an act.

Guard Capt. John D. Phillips, testifying for the state, told the jury that when he arrived on the scene after the two guards had been taken hostage, Eckstein told him: "You're the captain, but we're giving the orders."

He said that Eckstein was wearing Lt. Vance Schrader's hat and had handcuffs in his hand.

He said that Eckstein and inmate Charles E. McClelland, also charged in connection with the incident, dictated a list of demands for him to write down.

He said that Eckstein told him that if the demands were not met that they would "see their (the guards being held) heads rolling down the galleries."

Phillips said they tried to talk to the inmates but that Mc-Clelland and Eckstein both indicated they had nothing to lose and that "their demands would be met."

He further testified that Eckstein said: "We might as well kill them and show them we mean business."

On cross-examination, Phillips said that in the shakedown after the guards were freed, officers confiscated the sharpened table knife presented in evidence as well as large tablespoons which had been cut off and sharpened, makeshift knives made from mesh wire and a board torn off the table on which food is served.

Earlier, the two officers held hostage, Schrader and Erwin Siemens, testified about events during the time they were held hostage and identified a knife introduced in evidence as the knife held by various inmates including Eckstein.

Siemens said that Eckstein at one time stated: "We might as well do it now because he's not going our way."

He said that Eckstein also said that if the warden wouldn't go along with their demands "they would have to do away with us."

Schrader said the inmates threatened them several times and Eckstein said that if they didn't get what they wanted they "would have to kill us."

Sgt. Joseph D. Grabowski, who was on duty on Sept. 1 and Sept. 2 during the incident, testified that Eckstein told him that he and McClelland "masterminded the whole thing."

Don't feel overweight, ...puffed-up, bloated —when body-water retention "swells" your waist, thighs, legs, arms.

It's natural that you, too, may have a tendency to retain water in your system—body bloating fluid that builds up during the strenuous days of your pre-menstrual or menstrual period, or stress and overtiredness. That's why it makes such good sense to try X-PEL, the amazing new "Water Pills." They are a gentle diuretic that helps you lose water-weight gain, and relieve body-bloating puffiness, tummy bloat, arms and legs enlargement, and water retentive "swelling" due to water-weight gain. Guaranteed or money back. Ask your druggist for X-PEL "Water Pills" today because it must work for you, or you don't lose a penny.

Douglas County Election Bill Amended

By The Associated Press
The Legislature Thursday tentatively decided that Douglas County commissioners should be elected by districts rather than at-large as is now done. The action was taken by amending LB412, Omaha Sen. William Skarda's measure to provide for nomination by districts and election at-large of the Douglas County Board. The legislature adopted the district elections, both in the primaries and in the general election, by approving an amendment to the bill offered by Sen. P. J. Morgan of Omaha. The action followed about an hour of debate among Omaha senators on the best method of electing of the county and Morgan's motion followed by moments an unsuccessful attempt by Sen. Duke Snyder of Omaha to provide that the board be elected on an at-large basis, both in the primaries and in the general election. Snyder touched off the debate when he made his motion to return the bill to select file for his amendment but the request was turned down on a 29-15 vote. The bill was then advanced off select file, the second stage of floor consideration, and Morgan's motion to return the measure to select file followed.

$8 Million In Insurance Tax Funds To Be Split

State Treasurer Wayne R. Swanson reported Thursday the distribution of $8,155,764 in insurance tax funds will be made next week to the counties and the state.

The tax, collected on insurance premiums during the 1970 calendar year, shows an increase of $832,983 from the previous year's total.

Swanson said one-half of the tax revenue, or $4,077,881, will be deposited to the state's general fund while an equal amount is distributed to the 93 counties on the basis of population.

Each county treasurer retains 10% for the county's general fund and redistributes 60% to the school districts on the basis of average daily attendance and 30% to the cities and towns on the basis of population.

Douglas County, the state's most populous county, will receive $1,070,321, or slightly over one-fourth of the $4,077,881 being distributed to the counties.

Lancaster County's share is $461,616.

Amounts to the state's larger counties are Adams, $83,493; Buffalo, $57,798; Cass, $46,681; Dawson, $53,624; Dodge, $95,585; Gage, $70,669; Hall, $117,769; Lincoln, $91,149; Otoe, $42,817; Platte, $72,800; Sarpy, $178,451; and Scotts Bluff, $100,111.

MARLO BURG

Burg Named Small Businessman Of Year

Marlo Burg of Waverly Thursday was named Nebraska's small businessman of the year for 1971.

Gov. J. James Exon presented the award to the 44-year-old Burg on behalf of the Small Business Administration (SBA) in ceremonies in his office.

Burg, president of the National Crane Co., a firm employing some 120 persons, started in manufacturing in 1948, producing weed spraying equipment.

State Asks Okay For Highway Spending

The state of Nebraska has asked the federal government for permission to spend additional federal aid highway money for the current fiscal year above Nebraska's already-authorized limit.

A favorable decision, according to State Roads Department controller Harris Owens, could result in federal approval for Nebraska to contract for an additional $1.8 million in federal aid highway projects by June 30.

In addition, the state might be granted an extra $4.1 million in federal highway money during the fiscal year beginning July 1, Owens said.

Nebraska is now spending all of its federal aid money and the Transportation Department (DOT) is surveying the states to determine which states are spending their allotted share of the money.

Eldon Green, the Nebraska engineer for the DOT's Federal Highway Administration, said it is not now known how much additional spending might be authorized for Nebraska. He said the DOT survey is an attempt to see that all funds authorized for the current fiscal year are spent.

$8 Million In Insurance Tax Funds To Be Split

State Treasurer Wayne R. Swanson reported Thursday the distribution of $8,155,764 in insurance tax funds will be made next week to the counties and the state.

The tax, collected on insurance premiums during the 1970 calendar year, shows an increase of $832,983 from the previous year's total.

Swanson said one-half of the tax revenue, or $4,077,881, will be deposited to the state's general fund while an equal amount is distributed to the 93 counties on the basis of population.

Each county treasurer retains 10% for the county's general fund and redistributes 60% to the school districts on the basis of average daily attendance and 30% to the cities and towns on the basis of population.

Douglas County, the state's most populous county, will receive $1,070,321, or slightly over one-fourth of the $4,077,881 being distributed to the counties.

Lancaster County's share is $461,616.

Amounts to the state's larger counties are: Adams, $53,493; Buffalo, $55,799; Cass, $49,668; Dawson, $53,424; Dodge, $95,585; Gage, $70,669; Hall, $117,769; Lincoln, $81,149; Otoe, $40,817; Platte, $72,600; Sarpy, $178,651; and Scotts Bluff, $100,111.

Star Staff Writer

Three University of Nebraska administrators agreed Thursday that although progress has been limited, strides have been made in development of minority and ethnic academic programs.

They also stressed that campus-wide cooperation and coordination are essential to the development of such programs.

The three are all academic administrators at NU-Lincoln — Dean of Faculties C. Peter

Magrath, Dean of Arts and Sciences Melvin George and Lodi Rhodes, coordinator of the African-American studies program.

Informal Discussion

Their comments came during an informal discussion with a handful of students participating in a "spring session" of conversations and presentations at the Sheldon Sculpture Garden.

"We have made some strides," Magrath told the students who gathered on the lawn near the gallery.

And although he said he recognized many things still need to be done, he said "some exciting things are being considered."

'True American Studies'

One such project, still in the formative stages, is development of a "true American studies" program, he said, to study the contributions of minority and ethnic groups.

George also noted the Arts and Sciences College will have four courses next fall oriented to the American Indian and four dealing with the Mexican-American.

The key, George suggested, is a close working relationship with the offices which counsel and recruit minority students and academic leaders in the Teachers College and the Arts and Sciences College.

The students were told that a "working roundtable" involving people from those areas is being established to filter through the "nuts and bolts" work necessary for a coordinated approach to minority studies.

George also noted that special committees are working with departments in the college he heads to recruit minority graduate students, an effort he said was aided by members of the human rights committee of student government.

Not 'Satisfied'

"I can't say I've been satisfied," Rhodes said. But he said "some things have happened."

Those few accomplishments, he noted, took a year, while he would have preferred to have seen them accomplished in a month or two.

Progress was hampered somewhat, he said, by a number of events which "have diverted the whole university."

Rhodes said "a lot occurred at the philosophical level," progress he said is necessary to break through the institutional racism he described as "the normal mode of operation." "You have to convince people of the importance of moving in this area," he suggested.

The Owl and the Pussycat is no longer a story for children.

Magrath, Dean of Arts and Sciences Melvin George and Lodi Rhodes, coordinator of the African-American studies program.

Informal Discussion
Their comments came during an informal discussion with a handful of students participating in a "spring session" of conversations and presentations at the Sheldon Sculpture Garden. "We have made some strides," Magrath told the students who gathered on the lawn near the gallery. And although he said he recognized many things still need to be done, he said "some exciting things are being considered." "True American Studies" One such project, still in the formative stages, is development of a "true American studies" program, he said, to study the contributions of minority and ethnic groups. George also noted the Arts and Sciences College will have four courses next fall oriented to the American Indian and four dealing with the Mexican-American. The key, George suggested, is a close working relationship with the offices which counsel and recruit minority students and academic leaders in the Teachers College and the Arts and Sciences College. The students were told that a "working roundtable" involving people from those areas is being established to filter through the "nuts and bolts" work necessary for a coordinated approach to minority studies. George also noted that special committees are working with departments in the college he heads to recruit minority graduate students, an effort he said was aided by members of the human rights committee of student government. "Not 'Satisfied'" "I can't say I've been satisfied," Rhodes said. But he said "some things have happened."

Those few accomplishments, he noted, took a year, while he would have preferred to have seen them accomplished in a month or two. Progress was hampered somewhat, he said, by a number of events which "have diverted the whole university." Rhodes said "a lot occurred at the philosophical level," progress he said is necessary to break through the institutional racism he described as "the normal mode of operation." "You have to convince people of the importance of moving in this area," he suggested.

Here's sunny weather on top of the world's greatest earthquake producer. We sit astride the shaky San Andreas fault. If this fault begins to slip—Dear John, that's all she wrote.

Great cracks in the ground open, swallowing screaming citizens. Walls toppling. Sky-scrappers crashing. Bridges buckling—cars plunging horribly into the steaming sea.

Disaster is always around. Let me tell you...

I said: "All right! That's enough. You go to your room!" I mean the moppet had given me a lot of lip.

She marched out—nine swinging years. As she passed she made a face at me.

I had on furry foot slippers. I aimed a flat side soccer kick at her bottom. Owwww! I missed. My foot hit the door jamb.

I hopped around screaming murder. By night, my big toe was the size and color of a ripe plum.

The youngest boy said: "Can you help me fly my kite?" I said: "Here. Let me show you."

The string ran out suddenly. It dug a deep, raw furrow in my main typing finger.

I went in the bathroom to get something to stick on it. When I bent over, my head hit the tile edge. It started a flow of blood that took two gauze patches to stop.

I should worry about earthquakes. I have built-in disasters.

I don't worry about earthquakes. Except when some blighter forecasts them. Always some gloomy gus who says: "According to recorded time tables, an earthquake of major intensity is due..."

There was a Mr. Reuben Greenspan, an earthquake forecaster.

"Mr. Greenspan has been 87% right in his predictions," said a New York newspaper. (What did they care? They don't have earthquakes in Manhattan.)

Then they said: "A major earthquake is predicted on June 10."

They liked that one. Since the 1906 quake, New York journals have been aching to see another. They think it sells newspapers.

Well, I must say I was nervous as a fox in a forest fire. Greenspan—old 87%—gave the exact time: "9:30 a.m."

I didn't feel too good when I went to bed June 9. I set the alarm for 7:30. I left all the doors open: "Stand in a frame doorway when it starts to shake," I told everybody.

Anyway, 9:30 passed. The moppets were pleased as could be: "When will it start, Daddy?" One of them dropped a knife. I nearly jumped through the window.

If I'd had Greenspan around, I'd have thrown him through the window.

By and by it got to be 10 o'clock. So I had some more coffee and went to work.

Walking around with a toe the size of a lemon, that's real disaster. Walking around with your bleeding head in plaster and gauze, I should worry about quakes. That typing finger isn't much good either.

The house wren said: "How did you do it?"

I said: "Don't ask me any questions until six tonight. That's when I predict a major martini will be shaken."

Anyway, 9:30 passed. The moppets were pleased as could be: "When will it start, Daddy?" One of them dropped a knife. I nearly jumped through the window.

If I'd had Greenspan around, I'd have thrown him through the window.

By and by it got to be 10 o'clock. So I had some more coffee and went to work.

Walking around with a toe the size of a lemon, that's real disaster. Walking around with your bleeding head in plaster and gauze, I should worry about quakes. That typing finger isn't much good either.

The house wren said: "How did you do it?"

I said: "Don't ask me any questions until six tonight. That's when I predict a major martini will be shaken."

Chemist Heads For Track

Most of the Nebraska Wesleyan graduates, who will receive degrees Sunday at commencement exercises, will pack their diplomas in suitcases and head for jobs at various points of call.

Mike Kemling of Aurora will tuck his chemistry degree into the back of a dresser drawer and head for Ak-Sar-Ben where the Kemling horse racing stable is now campaigning.

Admitting that there's little call for a graduate chemist at a race track, Kemling has had his sights set on holding a stop watch at an early morning workout instead of holding a test tube in a laboratory since he entered college.

That shouldn't come as any surprise when you realize that Michael D. Kemling's father, Paul, is probably the second best known thoroughbred owner in Nebraska, second only to the late M. H. Van Berg, and his uncle, Orville, the second best known trainer, second only to Jack Van Berg.

But when Michael D. Kemling was growing up he recalls that he hated to go to the race track.

And he's getting a degree in chemistry at Sunday's NWU commencement exercises primarily because that was the easiest thing he could think of to major in while getting a chance to play college football.

Wanted To Play Football

"As strange as it may sound, the main reason I went to college was to play football," says the Aurora native, who played in the Nebraska Shrine Bowl. "And I majored in chemistry because that seemed to be the easiest thing for me at the time."

"You might say chemistry was simply a means to an end," he adds, that end being the chance to play football.

Since his first year at Nebraska Wesleyan, Mike has given little thought to doing anything else after graduation, but joining the Kemling family in the horse racing business.

He's been a part of that family for the past few years, but now is ready to take a full active role in the affairs of the Kremlin racing structure.

"I haven't given any thought to going off on my own," points out the younger Kemling, who has three horses listed in his name.

"I get along well with my father and I plan to just stick with him. We haven't really discussed what's going to happen, but I think Orville will go with the stock we send to Detroit and I'll stay with the ones we keep in Nebraska."

Plenty Of Young Horses

"We've got enough 2 and 3 year olds in our stable now that we can split it and race at two tracks," Mike adds.

Mike hasn't been pushed into the horse racing business by his successful parents, nor did they try to discourage him from joining the horse racing profession.

"I've been free to decide what I've wanted to do," he points out. "But I haven't always been in love with horse racing. In fact, when I was young, I hated to go to the track."

"It was boring when I couldn't go to the grandstand area to see the horses run and had to stay in the barn area."

But his interest jumped when as a junior in high school, his parents bought him a horse, Shadow Brush, whose first colt was named Kem Jr.

"Once I was able to get near the track where I could see the horses run and once I had a horse that I could call my own, I got excited about the sport," he notes.

"I became a regular at the track in the summer of my first year in college," he adds, "and it seemed to be where I could get the most sense of accomplishment of anything I'd ever done."

Since getting into the thick of things at the track, the 22-year-old Kemling finds it hard to put his finger on anything about being a trainer he dislikes. "I guess losing is the thing I dislike the most," he points out, "but that's probably true of all trainers."

Mike Kemling has made his choice of a stop watch over a test tube. DuPont or one of the other major companies may have lost a prime graduate. But Nebraska horse racing is likely to be the winner.

NU Seeks To Maintain Current Mizzou Streak

By STEVE GILLISPIE
Star Sports Writer

Nebraska's baseball team is hoping to keep a "streak" going for Missouri while hosting the Tigers this weekend.

Coach John Simmons' team from Columbia hasn't won a Big Eight game on the road this year in six tries. The Huskers will try and keep the jinx intact this afternoon in a doubleheader starting at 1:30 at the NU diamond.

The two teams will meet in

NU Sets Dates For Cage Camp

Nebraska basketball coach Joe Cipriano has announced his seventh annual Cornhusker Basketball Camp with four one-week sessions.

The dates of the camp are June 6-12, June 13-19, June 20-26, and June 27-July 3. Cipriano says the school is accepting applications for all sessions.

The camp features individual and team basketball training from the top high school coaches in the state and coach Cipriano and his staff.

Any boy who wishes to enroll should contact Coach Joe Cipriano, Room 207 Coliseum, University of Nebraska, Lincoln, 68508 for an application form.

East To Host District Thincld Meet

By VIRGIL PARKER
Prep Sports Writer

The coveted prize of a place in the state meet will go to some. For others the season will end when the four Capital City Class A high schools are joined by Columbus, Fremont, Norfolk and South Sioux City for a district track meet at East High Friday.

The first four finishers in each individual event and the two top relay teams will qualify to advance to the state meet in Kearney, May 21-22.

Action gets underway at 9 a.m. with the high jump, shot put and long jump events. The preliminaries for the hurdles and dashes begins at 10:30.

Finals in two running events will be held during the morning schedule. The two-mile run is slated for 11:15 with the 440 at 11:35.

The afternoon session opens with the pole vault at 1 p.m. The triple jump and discus begin at 1:45. The running events start with the high hurdles at 2:45.

At least two performers who are in the statewide top ten chart will be facing one another in nine of the 17 events.

One of the most crucial qualifying races is expected to be the two-mile relay. Though just the first two finishers will automatically qualify for the state meet, four of the schools have teams which have posted times among the best ten in the entire state.

A Lincoln Northeast quartet sped to an 8:04.2 clocking — the swiftest in the state this spring — while crosstown rival Southeast is third on the chart at 8:09.6. But Norfolk is fifth on the list (8:12.0) and East High seventh at 8:15.1.

A stirring race is bound to develop since the only way the third or fourth-place finishers could qualify for the state meet would be to run a faster time than the winner in any other district meet.

And that is unlikely since Hastings (second in the state with an 8:08.0 to its credit) and Grand Island, sixth on the statewide list, will be chasing each other in another district test the same day.

The hurdle races create a similar problem. The Lincoln High trio of Ken Adkins, Ralph Henderson and Steve Moore — Adkins is the defending Class A state champion in the lows — plus Southeast's Tim Lom-masson and East's Jim Bakk grabbed the top four places in the two barrier events at the Capital City championships last week.

But they will face the additional challenge of South Sioux City's Scott Beerman — the state leader in the highs and sixth in the lows — and Norfolk's Mike Zobel, who is tied for second in the state in the lows.

Capital City sprinters Kirk McCown of Southeast and Lincoln High's Jerome Pickett — tops in the city meet — will be fighting for a qualifying spot against Ken Robert of Columbus and Bruce Kearnes of Fremont, both listed among the state's top ten.

JIM FRENCH LISTED AT 5-2

Preakness Pick For Field Of 11

... CANONERO II AT 6-1

Baltimore (AP) — Canonero II will be in the dark briefly Saturday but his trainer was confident Thursday that the colt will see the Preakness finish line first just as he did in the Kentucky Derby.

The oddsmakers though had a show-me attitude about Canonero II who, because he is a nervous colt, will be blindfolded to be put into the starting gate.

The Derby winner was listed at 6-1 for the second race of the Triple Crown series while Frank J. Caldwell's Jim French, the Derby runner-up was made the early favorite at 5-2. Peter Kissel's Executioner, which skipped the Derby, was listed at 4-1 and Calumet Farm's Eastern Fleet, the fourth Derby finisher, was put at 5-1.

"He's ready to run another big race," said trainer Juan Arias after Canonero II, owned by Venezuelan Edgar Cabell, and eight other 3-year-olds were entered for the 96th Preakness. This brought the field to 11. Jim French and William A. Levin's Bold Reason, third in the Derby, had previously been entered. Bold Reason was listed at 8-1.

Others entered Thursday were Gustav King's Sound Off, 10-1; Brookmeade Stable's Limit To Reason, 15-1; Wendell P. Rosso's Impetuously, 10-1; Charles Fritz's and Betty Sechrest's Vegas Vic, 20-1; M. McCloy Davis' Royal JD, 30-1; and Walter D. Fletcher's Spouting Horn, 30-1.

If all 11 start, each under 126 pounds, the 1 3/16 mile second race of the Triple Crown series will be worth $189,900, with $137,400 to the winner.

Post time is 4:40 p.m. CDT, with television coverage from 4-5 p.m. and radio coverage from 4:15-5:45 p.m., both by CBS.

Sound Off, winner of a recent Preakness Prep, will break from the No. 1 post under Chuck Baltazar while Jim French will start from the outside under Angel Cordero Jr. Gustav Avila will take Canonero II out of the No. 9 gate.

Other jockey assignments and post positions were Limit To Reason, Jorge Velasquez, No. 2, Impetuously, Eric Guerin, No. 3, Vegas Vic, Bill Hartack, No. 4, Eastern Fleet, Eddie Maple No. 5, Executioner, Jacinto Vasquez, No. 6, Bold Reason, Jean Crugnet, No. 7, Royal JD, Eddie Belmonte, No. 8, and Spouting Horn, Jack Kurtz, No. 10.

Hartack, who has won three Preaknesses, replaces Howard Grant who rode Vegas Vic to a sixth place finish in the Derby.

"It's just a precaution," Arias said of the blindfolding of Canonero II to get him in the starting gate and added that it had been done in all of the colt's previous 13 races of which he won seven.

The blindfold — a hood with holes for ears, is dropped over the colt's head just before he is put into the gate and removed after he is in.

Coulter's Homer Crushes Omaha

Tulsa, Okla. (AP) — Chip Coulter's three-run homer in the sixth sparked the Tulsa Oilers to a come-from-behind 6-4 victory Thursday night over Omaha in an American Association baseball game.

The remainder of Nebraska's lineup is expected to be the same with Sam Sharpe, second base; Steve Achelpohl, third; Gene Stohs, centerfield; Pat Elgert, first; Randy Spiehs, catcher; Bob Munson, right and Torn Novak, left.

Impetuously, Executioner and Limit To Reason were the only Preakness candidates to work Thursday. Impetuously, who won the Blue Grass before finishing 13th in the Derby, went five furlongs in 1:01 4/5 and galloped out six furlongs in 1:17. This prompted trainer George Poole to say "I definitely look for him to make a better showing than he did in the Kentucky Derby when he had a mighty rough trip."

Lincoln's Miss Seeks First '71 Win

... ACTION GETTER FINALLY TRIUMPHS

By MARK GORDON
Star Sports Writer

Omaha — Lincoln's Miss, winner of more than $20,000 in 1970, seeks her first 1971 victory today in the $7,500-added Countess Stakes at Ak-Sar-Ben.

Top-weighted at 118 pounds, Lincoln's Miss is scheduled to compete against a field of nine three-year-old Nebraska-bred fillies for a 5 1/2-furlong sprint. The brown filly has come close in six starts but has only a second and one show for her efforts.

She was nipped by the slightest tip-of-a-nose by Miss Spy Song (winner of last year's Countess) in the Nebraska Derby on April 17 at Fonner Park in her best outing of the year. Lincoln's Miss will be guided by Ak-Sar-Ben's leading rider — J. L. Lively.

Three other fillies who competed with Lincoln's Miss in the six-furlong Fonner Park Special Stakes on April 26 will again battle the pride of T. C. Evans. Docs Gemma finished third, Lincoln's Miss placed fifth while Noble Nova took eighth and Roxies Lark tenth in the 10-horse field.

Docs Gemma, with Bill Stallings up, will carry 116 pounds as will Noble Nova with F. D. Rivera in the saddle.

Misty Wire, to be ridden by Felix Chavez, leads the four bidders that have saddled with 114 pounds. The T. C. Jorgensen animal has one win in four starts and two seconds, including a second by 1 1/2 lengths to Benny's Boy in a 5 1/2-furlong affair on May 1.

Other 114-pound competitors include Good Harvest, to be ridden by John Rettele, Roxies Lark, with George Munsell driving, and Ann E. Var, with Terry Barnes in the saddle.

Nellie Knox, to be ridden by Fred Ecoffey, and True Wynn, with Wayne Anderson up each get in at 112 pounds. Nellie Knox has one triumph and two places in four starts this year while True Wynn and one win, place and show in four 1971 appearances.

At Ak-Sar-Ben Thursday, Action Getter scored his first 1971 triumph in the $6,500 featured seventh race.

The four-year-old chestnut colt defeated seven others in the six-furlong scamper by racing to a 1:11 3/5 clocking in the allowance tests for 4-year-olds and up.

Owned by E. V. Benjamin III and J. M. Jones Action Getter returned $440, $320 and $240 in triumphing after seven non-trips to the Fair Grounds. Bowie and Aqueduct Action Getter was ridden by Ken Jones.

Fred Ecoffey piloted Apache Cheftan to second to pay $480 and $340, while Sonny's Delight, with Roldolfo Calderon in the saddle, showed for $400.

Husker Golfers Ready For 'Final Tune-Up'

Nebraska golfers will entertain teams from Kansas, Kansas State, Iowa State, Creighton and UNO this weekend in the final tune-up before next week's Big Eight tournament at Stillwater, Okla.

A late start because of bad weather in the early season has caused the Huskers to be somewhat inconsistent this season, but a first place tie in a four-team meet at Iowa State last week plus a more recent dual win over North Dakota State indicates the Huskers are on the right track.

"We had a potentially strong team at the beginning of the year," said first-year coach Larry Romjue, "but it has not played to its full potential. All of the players have done well at times, but they haven't put very many good rounds together, yet."

"Our lowest team total was 288 at Missouri, but the best showing was four over par at Holmes against North Dakota State. We've only played twice at home, and our record would probably be better if we played in Lincoln more often, but competition on foreign courses is better preparation for the Big Eight tournament which is our most important outing," he concluded.

Rick Schultz, the No. 1 player all year, has been the most consistent of the NU golfers, averaging 72.8 strokes per round of competition. He was the medalist with a 68 at the Manhattan triangular. Craig Waugh is another Husker who has been a medalist in major competition, tying for first in the Missouri Invitational with a score of 72-68-140.

Romjue also has confidence in Scott Brunzell, a consistent performer this year with a 75.3 average-per-round. Lance Gioe and Jim Roubush. Gioe and Roubush have been plagued by inconsistency, but they've both been improving, according to Romjue and could do well in the Big Eight. "Just what we need for a high finish," the coach said.

Hinson, Zarley Golfing Leaders

Houston (A) — Kermit Zarley and Larry Hinson tied for the first round lead in the $125,000 Houston Champions Invitational Golf Tournament Thursday by firing four-under-par 67s on the 7,166-yard Champions Golf Club course.

Sanders To Play At Hidden Hills

Holmes Park golf pro Bob Schuhart will join Hastings Lochland Country Club's pro, Bud Williamson, Jr., in an 18-hole exhibition match at Geneva with touring professional Doug Sanders on July 27.

The match at the Hidden Hills golf course will be preceded by a clinic and all proceeds will go to the All Faiths Chapel Fund for the Girls' Training School at Geneva.

The event is open to the public and tickets may be obtained from Maurice Crawford, manager of Hidden Hills.

KOLN Team Busy

KOLN/KGIN-TV's Triple A softball team will meet Bee, a state tournament entry in each of the last two years, Saturday evening in a doubleheader scheduled to begin at 7:30 at Ballard Field. KOLN/KGIN then meet Wilcox of Omaha in two games at Ballard Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m.

Drought May Increase Food Prices

By The Associated Press
Fresh vegetables, bread and cereals and even meat eventually may cost the housewife more because of the drought in the South and West. Farmers are feeling the pinch already.

An Associated Press survey showed Florida, Oklahoma and Texas were hardest hit.

Florida farmers and agriculture officials estimated Thursday that production of vegetables like tomatoes, cucumbers, celery, peppers and squash had been cut 50% by the drought.

The only production still reported is in irrigated areas and the shortage of supplies ultimately will lead to higher retail prices, officials said.

Federal Funds Available

Farmers in some areas reported they were running out of grass feed for cattle and water holes in some places have dried up. The Agriculture Department announced Wednesday it has made $160,000 available to Florida cattlemen to help them drill new wells and move herds.

Frank Pope, director of the federal Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation

Committee in Galveston said there had been isolated cases of farmers losing cattle because of the drought and said the financial strain on producers eventually will be reflected in consumer prices.

The U.S. Crop Reporting Service predicted the 1971 winter wheat crop in Oklahoma would be only 62.4 million bushels, the lowest crop since 1957 and a third less than last year.

The hardest hit areas were the Southwest — with an estimated yield of 3.3 million bushels forecast compared to 19 million last year — and the west-central — with less than 5 million bushels compared to 13 million in 1970.

'Pack Up And Move'
"Many farmers down here will just have to pack up and move to the cities," said Deniz Schultz, an agricultural expert at Altus, Okla.

He said the full effect of the drought on the region's economy would not be felt until fall and winter when the farmers normally would spend harvest profits on machinery and other needed equipment. Shultz said the final effect will be "tremendous."

The latest forecast of Texas wheat crops is for a harvest of 27,756,000 bushels. Dec. 1, the forecast was 45,656,000 bushels.

Don Burris, secretary treasurer of the Panhandle Grain and Feed Dealers Association, said almost all of the dryland wheat crop — that grain planted on land using no irrigation — has been lost.

He also said drought conditions in southwest Kansas, southwest Oklahoma, the Panhandle, the southern plains and eastern New Mexico have left few fields worth harvesting.

Agriculture officials and farmers said the failure of the dryland wheat crops would increase the price of bread and cereals in the stores.

Dryland grain also was hit in California, although officials said it represented only a small part of the total harvest. Officials estimated 5,000 acres of dryland grain would be lost in Los Angeles County alone. There are 20,000 acres of dryland grain through the state.

The officials said the dryland grain was a negligible part of the total harvest, but said that for the farmers involved "it's just as serious as the drought in the Texas Panhandle or Oklahoma."

East Students' Food Part Soybean

Students at the East Educational Complex were served a meat protein substitute Thursday as a part of a project to test various possible cost-saving techniques.

Earlier this week, school board members and other school personnel tried a prepackaged lunch which may be going into service at two schools next fall.

The East High students ate hash, chili and turkey sandwiches Thursday — all with 30% soybean protein substitute and 70% meat, a combination now permitted in school lunch programs by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Two Products

"Beef crumbles" and chicken-flavored "tidbits," both near pure protein products made from soybeans, were used with the meat.

Associate Supt. Robert Den Hartog estimated that about a penny per meal might be saved if such a plan were instituted.

The Lincoln Public Schools serve 17,000 to 18,000 meals per day in 43 school lunch facilities.

Opinions Asked

East students were asked to react to Thursday's experiment to test opinion of the product.

Den Hartog noted that pending legislation would hike the quantity requirements of the Type A lunch commonly served, and boost the raw food cost to the district from about 26 cents per meal to 43 cents.

The change, if instituted, would require three ounces of protein per meal rather than the current two, raising the annual protein requirements for the entire district from the current 200 tons to about 300 tons.

A protein substitute would save both labor and food costs, while the prepackaged meals would save primarily labor costs and costs of preparation equipment.

Three Projects

To Close Streets

The city traffic engineers office announced that 24th from E St. to Randolph will be closed for a month for paving beginning Friday.

Aylesworth St. from 48th to 50th will close Monday for a month for paving.

The intersection of 14th and Garfield will be closed for a week starting Friday for installation of a telephone duct.

Wanted: Clean Air And Balanced Transportation

The preservation of Lincoln's clean air and the desire for a well-balanced transportation system were the main concerns voiced at a public hearing on the environmental aspects of the city's proposed bus takeover at the County-City Building Thursday night.

Mrs. Greg Galther, environmental quality chairman of the League of Women Voters, talked about atmospheric inversions caused by lead particulates in the air. An inversion occurs when there is a layer of cool air overlying a layer of warm air not allowing it to rise.

She said that if an inversion becomes prolonged the toxic material in the air cannot escape and it continues to build up until people are poisoned and die.

Mrs. Galther said, "It's now

Army Engineers To Plant Trees Near Oak Lake

A beautification program, the first step in a continuous tree planting project by the Corps of Engineers, will get its start Saturday when 70 trees and shrubs will be planted at the intersection of Charleston St. and the U.S. Highway 6 bypass adjacent to Oak Lake Park in Lincoln.

The "Circle K," a University of Nebraska student organization affiliated with the Lincoln Kiwanis Club community service program, will devote that day to planting trees.

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf, Larry Enersen, a member of the Corps' Nebraska Environmental Advisory Committee and the Mayor's Urban Beautification Committee, and Hal L. Schroeder, general manager of the Salt Valley Watershed District, will participate in a tree planting ceremony with Lt. Col. Walter A. Fred, Omaha deputy district engineer, at 10:30 a.m. Saturday.

Red Barberry, pftizers, junipers, Austrian pine and flowering crabs will border the west bank levee of Salt Creek. The plantings are bagged in burlap and the flowering crabs measure from five to six feet in height.

The Corps of Engineers completed this portion of the Salt Creek channel in December 1967 and are working on beautifying all corps projects.

Mary C. Jones Files Suit Charging Court Conspiracy

Mary C. Jones has filed suit in U.S. District Court charging conspiracy to destroy her family by "all white authority" in connection with the dismissal last week in Lancaster District Court of a damage suit and habeas corpus action she filed in connection with the alleged taking of her mother by Lancaster County authorities.

In the self-prepared petition filed in federal court, Mrs. Jones contends that Lancaster District Judge William Hastings, who dismissed her suit, and other court officers including Clerk of the District Court Clerk Otis Nelson, violated her right to due process and asks that they disqualify themselves in her case.

She alleges that during the hearing before Judge Hastings the judge refused documents she offered in evidence and ordered the sheriff's deputies to seize her and remove her from the court room.

She further contends that the court ordered her mother, Mrs. Harriet Jones, to continue for half an hour of uninterrupted charges of "hurt, insult, etc."

In her Lancaster District Court action, Mrs. Jones had contended that during a brief absence from her home on March 21, Lancaster County Welfare Officials "covertly spirited her mother to the poor farm and detention home known as Westview."

Judge Hastings held that Mrs. Jones' mother was not at any time in legal custody or control of the defendant and that during the time the elder Mrs. Jones resided at Westview she did so at her own request.

Eight Bottling Firms Seek Refund

Eight Nebraska soft drink bottling firms have filed suit in Lancaster County District Court seeking refunds of sales and use taxes paid on purchases of bottles, cartons and shells.

In an action filed against the State Revenue Department and State Tax Commissioner William E. Peters, the bottlers alleged that the containers for soft drinks are part of the finished product for resale; and for this reason, the bottles, cartons and shells should not be subject to sales and use taxes.

The plaintiffs allege that they transfer to their customers ownership of the bottles, cartons and shells together with ownership of the beverages contained within them.

According to the petition, the plaintiffs in March filed a protest and sought a refund of the sales or use tax imposed, assessed or collected from the plaintiffs or manufacturers of said containers.

The plaintiffs contend that on March 12 a hearing was held and on April 8, Peters held that the containers were taxable based on a section of the law which states that "a container of a kind customarily returned by the buyer of the contents for reuse does not constitute tangible personal property which will enter into and become an ingredient or component part of tangible personal property manufactured, processed or fabricated for ultimate sale at retail."

The bottlers claim that the record does not support this finding but on the contrary shows the plaintiffs are engaged in the sale of bottled or contained beverages.

They allege that they do not use the containers for storage of the finished product for any extended length of time and when the bottles, cartons or shells are delivered to the plaintiffs' customers, they transfer to such buyers the ownership of the containers together with the ownership of the beverages contained therein.

According to the petition, the tax commissioner's order stated that the plaintiffs' purchases are of "returnable containers"; however, the plaintiffs contend the purchases by plaintiffs of containers do not include the contents; there is no retail sale of the container and the contents; these containers are not returned by the plaintiff buyers to the manufacturer for reuse, and the plaintiffs are not the buyers of the contents.

The bottling companies contend that the tax commissioner's order construes the Nebraska revenue act of 1967 in violation of the uniformity provisions of the state constitution.

They asked the court to reverse the tax commissioner's order and order the refund to the plaintiffs of the sales and use taxes collected.

Plaintiffs in the action are Pepsi-Cola Bottling Co., Lincoln; Coca-Cola Bottling Co., Lincoln; Mid-Continent Bottlers Inc.,

Heart Recipient Is 'Progressing'

Cape Town, South Africa (UPI) — Dirk Van Zyl, the world's latest heart transplant recipient, was "progressing favorably" at Groote Schuur Hospital Thursday three days after he was given a new heart by Dr. Christian Barnard, a hospital bulletin said.

Van Zyl, a burly, six-foot, 44-year-old road worker, received the heart of an unidentified black farm worker in Barnard's eighth transplant operation.

26 Men Trained In Radiological Monitoring Class

Diplomas were given to 26 volunteers from state and federal agencies Thursday who participated in an aerial radiological monitoring training session conducted by Wesley Murray and Hale Dodge at the State Patrol air base training grounds.

Murray, state radiological defense coordinator and Dodge, resource management coordinator, taught the eight-hour course to men in the State Patrol, Civil Air Patrol, the Game and Parks Commission and the National Guard.

This program, a supplement to the ground program, gave the men the aerial training needed to take care of any accidents that might occur with the handling of radioactive material across the state.

Francine Signals Concern Over Monetary Clouds

Paris — French interest rates were increased Thursday in a move signaling the government's concern over what it considers to be a deteriorating international monetary climate.

The decision to boost the discount rate, the interest rate barometer of the country, from 6 1/2% to 6 3/4% took on international significance.

With the increase, France has stepped out of line from what had been a trend toward lower interest rates in Europe.

Should the trend be reversed by actions of other countries, earlier-laid plans to correct the rate differential between the United States and Europe could be shattered.

International monetary authorities had been hoping that as rates fell in Europe they would rise in the United States. This would tend to draw money from Europe to the United States.

A monetary crisis has broken out because of high rates, partly because of expectations of upward currency adjustments.

The French action came on a day of further agitation in the gold and currency markets. Gold traded in Zurich at $41 an ounce, its highest level since October, 1969. Also, the dollar weakened against the floating West German mark.

The mark closed Thursday at 21.21 cents, against 28.05 cents Wednesday. It had been detached from its previously fixed upper limit against the dollar and permitted to find a new natural level under the influence of supply and demand.

Thursday's 30-cent advance in the gold price to $41 an ounce brought the rise for the week to $1.20.

Gold traders said the buying was coming increasingly from those who expected the monetary turbulence to lead to an upward adjustment in the American Treasury's official gold price of $35 an ounce.

The disclosure of sizeable recent American Treasury gold losses had added to the monetary uncertainties.

2 Lincoln Youths Listed 'Serious' In Cycle Mishap

Two Lincoln youths were listed in "serious" condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital with injuries suffered in a car-motorcycle collision at 37th and High Thursday afternoon, according to police officer Byford Bruce.

Bruce said that the driver of the motorcycle, Mark Kouma, 16, of 4715 Pawnee, sustained head injuries, a severely broken wrist and a possible broken leg and his passenger, Susan Patocka, 16, of 2626 South, suffered head injuries and cuts to her leg when the motorcycle they were riding was in collision with a car driven by Ann Fench, 18, of 2344 N. 64th.

The Kouma cycle was southbound on 37th and the Fench auto was northbound on 37th turning left onto High at the time of the accident, Bruce said.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you right. DID YOU KNOW THIS? IT'S A FACT:

CROSSWORD PUZZLE

Venezuela's gross national product increased only 3.5% in 1969, compared with a 5% rise in 1968.

The first Finnish language paper was published in 1775.

Twenty years ago the cost of land accounted for about 11% of the total sales price of a house. Today it accounts for 24%.

Saudi Arabia's crude-oil production in 1969 averaged almost 3 million barrels a day, a 5.7% increase over the 1968 average.

Chief's Head Mountain in Colorado is so named because it resembles an Indian's profile.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

by William J. Miller

One letter simply stands for another in this example. A is used for the three L's and X's for the two O's. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
